IN CHASING CAR, MAN IS BADLY HURT

Arthur Rafemeister Hit by Auto As He Sprints for Pacific Electric.

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

Leaves Friend's Machine, Fails to See Auto Coming

Arthur Hafemeister, 1150 North Columbus avenue, was struck down by a passing automobile about 8 o'clock this morning at the corner of Lomita avenue and Brand boulevard. Mr. Hafemeister was riding with a friend to catch the Pacific Electric car at Lomita avenue, and in getting out of the machine, was struck by a car driven by J. C. Dennerlen of 1304 North Central avenue, which he failed to see.

Mr. Hafemeister is receiving aid at the Glendale hospital and sanitarium for a deep cut in the back of his head. X-ray photographs weer taken this morning.

CHAUTAUQUA IS ASSURED FOR 1923

Fifty-two Guarantors Signed Contract for Next Year

Glendale is assured of a Chautauqua season next year. Thirty-five guarantors were called for and 52 responded. The program this year and the excellent management have established the Chautauqua more firmly than ever in the favor of our citizens and they will be glad to know it is a certainty for 1923, with a prospect of greater attractions than ever.

The guarantors have already met as a committee of the whole and elected L. A. Hart as president; E .S. McKee, vice president, and George Leaton, secretary-treasurer.

K. C. TRAVEL TO YOSEMITE IN OWN CARS

Special Train of Knights Go North From Convention

On their way to Yosemite for their annual vacation, 300 Knights of Columbus, members of California council No. 880, and their wives and friends, will leave San Francisco in a special Southern Pacific train Sunday morning, July 9. In the party will be Supreme Warden David R. Supple of San Francisco, State Deputy D. Joseph Coyne of Los Angeles and State Chaplain John J. Clifford of Los Angeles, and numerous other prominent Knights of Columbus officials.

There will be several delegations of out-of-town "Caseys" on the outing and arrangements are now being made to have special train service and cars for these parties. John F. Daley of San Francisco is chairman of the Knights of Columbus Yosemite outing committee.

BOOZE HOUNDS JUMP BOUNDARIES

VENICE, Cal., June 3.—Borders and boundaries have always hampered the government, and boundaries between cities are no exception.

Police here, on a hot scent of a whiskey still, discovered that it was in a house across the street which marks the border between Venice and Santa Monica.

Unable to enter to enforce the law in the neighboring city, the officers sent a hurry call to the Santa Monica police. When these arrived, however, the proprietor had taken the alarm and fled out the front window, to take refuge in Venice.

By the dawn's early light, however, the Santa Monica officials descried that the still was still there.

SPEAKERS AT CREDIT LUNCHEON

Two speakers are on the program for the luncheon meeting of the Glendale Credit association on Monday. E. J. Myer, Jr., special representative of the Southern California Beet Sugar Producers, will talk for five minutes on the reviving of the industry and saving it for California.

City Manager W. H. Reeves will talk on the garbage situation in the business district.

This Old World Needs Human Understanding Says Mr. Foley

More than any other thing, this world needs understanding, sympathy, tenderness and forgiveness, in other words more tolerance, says James W. Foley in "The Listening Post" this evening. He speaks of Lincoln as such a man who has not been deified, but simply beloved of every one. Mr. Foley tells us that the beautiful memorial in Washington should be an inspiration to all of us.

The dangerous criminal is not worth as much as the meanest cur that ever stole a bone, according to Henry James, who, this evening, comments on capital puuishment as a just dessert for the robber who will kill when he does not get all the loot he wishes. Then Mr. James also writes an interesting paragraph or two on the advisability of a woman making a proposal of marriage, a subject that has been up for much discussion down through the years.

If you want to get some first-hand information on world events, don't fail to read the editorials in this evening's paper, for they deal with subjects which are being discussed all over the country as well as the world, today.

To complete one of the most intellectual editorial pages in the country, there are articles by John Pilgrim, Della Stewart and Dr. Frank Crane. The Eastern Point of View also expresses the opinion of our neighbors on the Atlantic seaboard.

MERCHANTS' TEAM LINES UP FOR TOMORROW

Walt Heidler to Take the Mound, McIntosh to Play Second

The Glendale Merchants' baseball team will meet the Pasadena Tigers tomorrow afternoon on the Glendale diamond. The Glendale players will start the game with confidence born of the knowledge that they have defeated two strong teams ni the past two weeks. Last Sunday the local ball-tossers took the Pasadena M. W. A. team down to defeat and the week before they shut out the Los Angeles Tigers out without a score.

Jack Kearns, a member of the Glendale police department, and formerly an athletic director for the United States marine corps, will probably be on the mound for the Merchants, with King wearing the catcher's mitt. This battery is hard to beat, and when they get to working mean just plain trouble for the batters of the opposing team.

"Walt" Heidler, formerly of the Pasadena team, has joined the Glendale nine and will probably be held in reserve, or the two ptichers will split the game, giving each hurler a chance to demonstrate his ability.

The Merchants have arranged a schedule that will allow them to play practically all of the games this season at home. The team plays on the diamond at Park avenue and San Fernando road.

W. R. C. BAZAAR WELL ATTENDED

Something Doing Every Minute at Masonic Temple

Up to noon today the bazaar that was given in Masonic hall for the benefit of the repair fund of the Women's Relief Corps was well attended, with the prospects that during the remainder of the day there would be something doing every minute.

Mrs. Priscilla Houdyshell, who was in charge of the whole affair, had her capable crew of assistants on the job bright and early, so that even the earliest callers were well taken care of.

The following were in charge of the various tables: Home cooked food, Mrs. Catherine Barr; rugs and bedding, Mrs. Tisdale; fancy work, Mrs. Richards; aprons, Mrs. Mary Bennett; children's clothing, Mrs. Hattie Tiffany; rummage sale, Mrs. Mary Milligan; hand-painted china, Mrs. Bennett Skelton; ladies' toggery, Mrs. Adelaide Chappius.

A chicken dinner will be served from 6 to 8 o'clock tonight, following which will be an auction of the goods remaining unsold at that time.

INTER-SCHOOL GAME POSTPONED

Because of the threatening weather, the ball game which was to have been played on the Cerritos avenue field Friday afternoon to determine the city championship, was postponed until next week.

MUSIC CLUB CLOSES ITS SESSIONS

Brilliant Supper and Excellent Program Is Given

MRS. JONES PRESIDES

Function Is Concluded With Olga Steebe in Recital

The banquet and concert of the Glendale Music club proved one of the most brilliant social affairs of the season, the dining room of the First Methodist church, where the function was given, being filled with members and their friends.

Covers were laid for 168, and the flowers with which the tables were decorated, the pretty gowns of the women guests, and the animated talk made an ensemble of festivity not often enjoyed, and that could only be secured through a strong and popular organization like that of the Glendale Music club, under the brilliant leadership of its president, Mrs. Mattison B. Jones.

At the speakers' table were the special guests of the evening, Mrs. Daniel Campbell, president-elect of the Tuesday Afternoon club, Mr. Dray, editor of the Bulletin of the Federation of Music clubs; Mrs. Gertrude Ross, composer; the singers, Mr. and Mrs. Spenser-Kelley; the composer, Vernon Spencer; the theatrical manager, Miss France Goldwater, and last, but by no means least, the great manager who has done more to foster the love of music in Southern California than any other citizen, L. E. Behymer.

Addresses were made by all of these, after Mrs. Jones had read a telegram of greeting and congratulation from Mayor Spencer Robinson, who is in San Francisco, and a word of greeting had been given by V. L. Hollister, as president of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce.

Mrs. Campbell said she felt the Tuesday Afternoon club had a prior claim upon its past president, Mrs. Jones, under whom she herself had served as vice-president. She paid tribute to Mrs. Jones' qualities as a leader and congratulated the club on electing her to the presidency for the coming year.

Mrs. Ross objected to the wording of the theme assigned her, "Women Composers," declaring there should be no sex in art. She dwelt on the development of women along this creative line, saying that whereas the musical compositions of women until recently represented only one-tenth of the total, publishers' records now show that two-thirds of their compositions are created by women.

At the head of the list of women composers she ranked Mrs. H. A. Beach, after which she named Mabel Daniels, Harriet Weare, Mary Turner Salter, Fay Foster, Lily Strickland, Jessie Gaynor, Alice Barnett, Mary Carr Moore, Mana Zucca, and Carrie Jacobs Bond.

Mrs. Beach's "Ah, Love But a Day," was then sung most beautifully by Mrs. Spenser-Kelley, who responded to an encore call with a charming song about kissing.

Vernon Spencer contributed many witty epigrams and kept the audience amused during his speech on "Women as Patrons of Music." He declared, for instance, that "matrimony is the well placed derail switch to the artist with a career in sight." He objected to being limited to ten minutes on a theme upon which he could talk all night. He credited women with having popularized classical music in countries where it had hardly been heard of and said, "the things we do not like in music are the things we do not know." He suggested as the motto of the music club, "We will work for posterity even if it did not work for us." He spoke of the difficulty American composers experience in getting their work before the public in competition with foreign composers, and to help American music he urged the club to make a rule to give no program which did not include an American composition.

Miss France Goldwater, speaking to the text, "The Woman Manager," also declared there should be no sex in art and said she had found a definite and congenial field in her chosen line of work.

Mr. Spenser-Kelley then sang "Spirit Song," by Campbell Kempton, and Mrs. Spenser-Kelley joined him in beautiful renditions of "Down the Path in Which We Lingered," and Metcalf's "Absence," which was exquisitely sung.

Mr. Behymer closed the after dinner program with an entertaining talk about "Women Artists I Have Known," paying an eloquent tribute to their pioneer spirit in being willing to carry the best in music to back country districts and out of the way cities, which entailed great hardships of travel. As an appreciative friend, as well as a manager, he spoke of Lillian Russell, Jessie Bartlett Davis, Lillian Nordica, Maud Powell, Mary Garden, Emma Abbott, Sybil Sanderson, Alice Nielsen, and others, and said that through the artists, the clubs, the schools, the homes, America is becoming a musical nation and it is due in great part to the womanhood of America.

A very beautiful program was given by Olga Steeb, pianist, in the auditorium of the church, following the banquet before a large audience, which was enthusiastic in its expressions of appreciation.

JAZZ SCHOOL ISSUE PLAYS PROMINENT PART IN WILKERSON DIVORCE CASE

Mrs S K Wilkerson, Little Billy Wilkerson & Mrs F R Carter

Insight into night life of one of Chicago's "jazz schools" was given at Memphis, Tenn., when Henry Lynn Wilkerson, millionaire druggist of that city, sued his wife, Mrs. Susie Kyle Wilkerson, for divorce. Ford Rodman Carter, former president of the Chicago Stock Exchange, was named in the suit by Wilkerson. Mrs. Carter declared she was fully aware of her husband's acquaintance with Mrs. Wilkerson and had unreserved confidence in him. Custody of 5-year-old Billy Wilkerson was awarded to the father. Mrs. Wilkerson was allowed no alimony and no attorney's fees.

PORTLAND MAKES PLANS FOR BIG ROSE FESTIVAL

Motorboat Races to Be Feature of Annual Fete

PORTLAND, Ore., June 3.—Preparations are going forward for the annual Rose Festival, to be held here June 20 to 23, inclusive. Motorboats are slated to furnish thrills for thousands of lovers of fast watercraft expected to line the Willamette's banks June 22.

At least four, and possible eight, of the fastest motorboats in San Pedro have been promised for the fiesta, according to an announcement by Fred W. Vogler, in charge of the regatta activities. The McCormick Steamship company has announced a rate reduction for transporting the boats. Just what prizes will attract entrants has not been announced. Volger Boy IV probably will be entered from Portland, and perhaps two or three other craft. Some boats are expected to come from Seattle to swell the entry list, but this has not been definitely announced.

Preparations for the grand floral pageant are rapidly nearing completion. The complete list of the committee chairmen who will supervise the 16 different sections comprising the big pageant were published last week. Prizes have also been announced for this event. A grand sweepstakes prize of $500, with a second grand prize of $200, will be awarded to the best entries in the general pageant, in addition to numerous cash prizes and cups in the different classes of various divisions.

An ordinance appropriating $180 from the city park fund for two medals, to be awarded for prize roses at the Portland rose show, has been passed, and the medals planned and ordered. According to Otto Mielke, vice president of the Portland Rose society, more than 80 entries have been made from all over the world for this show, a usual and customary brilliant feature of the fiesta.

MATSON LINE ADOPTS RADIO

SAN FRANCISCO, June 2.—Radiophones are now a part of the regular equipment of the Matson line transpacific liners. The first vessel to be so equipped was the Matsonia, which sailed a few weeks ago for Honolulu.

The new equipment enables the liners to pick up radio concerts, dance music, and news from San Francisco and Portland for over a day's voyage, and for the same time from Honolulu broadcasting stations.

SANTA ROSA TRIBE AWAIT FEDERAL VERDICT

300 Indians Claim 30,000 Acres in Part of Southern Pacific Grant

LOS ANGELES, June 3.—The right of 300 Indians of the Santa Rosa tribe to some 30,000 acres of land will be decided shortly by Federal Judge Benjamin Bledsoe.

The land involved was granted to the Southern Pacific in 1866 by the federal government, and comprises many miles along the border of the Salton Sea. According to Deputy Federal Attorney Louis Lissner, the land was granted under the clause that it should be void in case other appropriation had been made. Now that the railroad wishes to dispossess the Indians, the government seeks to rescind the order. Other lands have been offered and refused. The Indians, it is claimed, have lived there from time immemorial, grazing their cattle and growing their crops, and in justice to them the government now seeks to retain their homes for them.

After a short court argument before Judge Bledsoe, both sides agreed to submit the case on briefs.

ANCIENT FOUNTAIN OF PADRES MOVED

LOS ANGELES, June 3.—About the time some early Americans were holding a celebrated party in Boston harbor, Spanish padres were building a fountain out opposite their mission at San Fernando, near here.

The fountainthis week will be moved across the street to ornament the tropical garden of the mission, which is now restored and under charge of the park board.

In preparing to move the fountain, Charles Britten, contractor for the park department, discovered the Spanish pioneers built somewhat differently than is the habit of the modern architect of the 2-by-4 built residence.

The foundation weighs only about 58 tons, Britten estimated. The padres had laid first a bed of hard solid cement 3 feet thick. Then they put over this a layer of red adobe tiles, and coated this fragile surface with concrete four inches thick.

CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINATIONS

The civil service commission invites special attention to the fact that in examinations held recently in Los Angeles and other cities throughout the United States, for junior engineer and deck officer, U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey; assistant examiner, patent office; fish culturist, bureau of fisheries; and matron, Indian service, applicants were not secured in the number desired, and that these examinations will be held again. The assistant examiner examination will be held on June 21, 22 and 23, the junior engineer and deck officer, on June 21 and 22, and the others on June 21.

Persons interested in these or other examinations should apply to the secretary of the U. S. civil service board at the local postoffice for detailed information and application blanks.

HIGH GAINS ORATORICAL TROPHY CUP

Paul Hutchinson Brings Home the Token From Contest

3RD SUCCESSIVE TIME

Wins Permanent Possession of All S. California High Orators

Glendale high school again won the Southern California championship in oratory, when its representative, Paul Hutchinson, who spoke for it last night at the contest held in the old Los Angeles high school, "brought home the bacon"—a beautiful silver loving cup. His subject was "The Trend of Civilization."

PAUL HUTCHINSON
Glendale High boy who won Southern California Oratorical Championship at Los Angeles.

The cup was put up several years ago, to be competed for by the different high schools in Southern California, with the understanding that when it had been won by any one school three times, it should become the permanent property of that school. The cup had been won before by two other Glendale boys, Clarence Ralston and Jack Jenkins, and Paul Hutchinson should feel quite fortunate in being able to bring it home the third time, making it the permanent property of Glendale high school.

Hutchinson represented the senior class in the interclass contest and won. He competed against two other contestants last night, Miss Dorothy Thomas of Los Angeles high, who chose as her subject, "Just Taxation—a Step Toward Democracy," who gave a wonderful talk, and Frank Da lon,representing Pasadena high, who spoke on "An American Problem," dealing, for the most part, with the negro question.

A great many Glendale students were present last night and cheered their speaker on to victory with their "peppy" yells and songs.

SPECIAL SERVICES AT PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Sermon Series to Start in Morning and Evening Meetings

A special series of morning and evening sermons will begin at the Presbyterian church tomorrow. The pastor, Rev. W. E. Edmonds, states that these sermon series will be of interest to everyone. The general subject for the morning series will be "Harmonies." The subjects week by week at the morning service will be, "The Christian Walk," "Experience," "The Forgotten Secret," "The Christ Life," "Environment," "Worship and Fellowship."

The general subject for the evening series will be "Discords" and the themes night by night will be, "The Discord of Sin," "A Young Man Out of Tune," "The Noisy Passion for Pelf," "Strains True and False in Our National Anthem," "The Beasts of Ephesus," "The Hiss of the Hypocrite."

Two Victorious Life conferences have just ended in this church. One was general and the other was especially for young people. Both conferences were the means of awakening great interest in many people. These sermon series will be in the nature of post conference messages and will be of especial interest to all who are studying the deepening of the spiritual life.

Amundsen to Sail for North Pole This Evening

SEATTLE, June 3.—Captain Raold Amundsen will be on his way to "the place where the weather is made" before night. Late this afternoon, with his handful of companions aboard the sturdy but little schooner Maud, he will sail out of Puget Sound en route to the North Pole via Nome.

A band will play "The Star Spangled Banner," a group of friends and representatives of the city of Seattle will shake hands with the members of the party and Amundsen's remarkable expedition will be off, to spend perhaps as long as seven years drifting in ice floes through the Polar regions.

Never before has there been an expedition like it. Radio apparatus will, for the first time in the history of Polar exploration, keep the party in touch with the world. It will work with nations in Norway, sending back data which, Amundsen hopes will, among other things, permit the forecasting of weather, with almost unfailing accuracy.

The first Christmas at the North Pole is to be celebrated in true Yuletide fashion, with presents and all, December 25, 1923.

When the schooner sails today for the frozen north, she will carry a dozen little packages marked in Norwegian:

"Do not open until December 25, 1923. Merry Christmas."

They were placed aboard by Seattle girls who stopped to think that it will be a mighty lonely holiday season for the members of Amundsen's party, along about that time.

CAMP IN YOSEMITE IS FULL OF THRILLS

Spickermans and Jeffries Families Report to Glendale Press

A letter from the C. W. Spickermans and George E. Jeffries families of Glendale, who are spending some time in Yosemite, states that they are having a splendid time. The letter reads as follows:

"Dear Editor: Just a few lines from the Spickerman and Jeffries camp at Yosemite valley. We are thoruoghly enjoying ourselves here, although we haven't taken many long hikes yet. Mr. Spickerman is much interested this morning in untangling his land tangled line so that the waters of the valley bring the long, slim trout near enough that he will land them on our table for all to enjoy. (They say 20 is the limit.)

"The valley had a nice shower of rain last evening but it cleared away in time for Robert Tower to again spread his bed under the boughs of a sturdy pine, where he sets his watch and lantern directly at the head so he can get an early start on another hike. He and his father, both eager to get to the highest point, yesterday made the test trip, each going in a different direction to the same point, the father taking the half-dome trail. Upon reaching his destination his father was exhausted and lay down in the snow and when Robert arrived he found his father's strength most gone. Then it began to rain and they had to make their way home, both arriving at camp completely soaked. Mr. Tower stated that he did not know the waters of the valley were so strengthening.

"This is a fine place, many wonderful things to see. I was much pleased the other evening to see a fine large deer going along back of our tents, then one of our neighbors from Long Beach told us that sometimes the brown bears came along looking for our supply of bacon which might be left in the camp. Too bad, but we have none left for them. There is no snow in the valley and none on the Merced road coming in, so our friends in Glendale need not worry about snow, for this is a fine time of year to be here. The fall of water in the falls is very heavy and beautiful.

"With best regards from the Spickerman and Jeffries camp."

JACK KEARNS IS MADE SERGEANT

The office of patrol sergeant has been created and Patrolman Jack Kearns was today appointed to the position. Before joining the department, Kearns served six years in the marines. On his discharge he was awarded the marine good conduct medal. This is one of the hardest awards to win in the marine corps.

Sergeant Kearns is of the pitching staff of the Merchants' baseball team.

Detective Leo Stein arrested C. Barksdale of Montrose yesterday in connection with the alleged theft of some laundry from the Glendale laundry several weeks ago.

THE WEATHER

Southern California: Tonight cloudy, Sunday fair.

Los Angeles and vicinity: Fair tonight and Sunday, with fog or cloudy in the morning.

ROTARY CLUB IS PREPARING FOR MONDAY

Young Organization Plans to Bring Luster to City at Convention

100 PER CENT SURE

Glendale Day at 13th International Meet to Be Marked

The Rotary club of Glendale, 100 per cent strong, will attend the thirteenth annual International Rotary convention, the formal opening of which will take place Monday morning in Los Angeles. The Glendale boys, all "dolled up" in their white trousers, blue coats, yellow ties, white shoes, straw kellies with yellow bands and poppies, and canes, and all the other "fixin's," are planning to do the convention up brown.

Regardless of how successful they are in this, there is at least one thing that will happen—before the convention is over, every fellow there will realize that Glendale is on the map. They will know, further, that Glendale is filled to the brim with boosters, every man of whom is working day and night for the good of the city. Also, they will know that every Rotary member from Glendale is a "regular feller."

Arrangements are being made by most of the members of Rotary from Glendale to attend practically all of the sessions, especially the Saturday evening meeting, which will be held at the Ambassador hotel, and will be in the form of a hop; while the others will take in as many of the sessions as possible. Every word uttered in addresses at this convention will be of value to every Rotarian. These speeches will give to the delegates a clearer understanding of the objects and purposes of Rotary, and will bring to every member his responsibility in connection with the organization.

Talks will be given by the biggest men in Rotary. They have come from every part of the globe, and practically every large city of the United States is represented. Every speaker will be a Rotarian, so that he will know what he is talking about, and will propound the doctrine he is constantly endeavoring to practice.

It is expected that today and tomorrow there will be such a line-up of machines ready for the big visitation of Rotarians to Glendale from Los Angeles, that the Jewel City will sparkle with them. If your car will be available Monday, notify the chamber of commerce as soon as possible.

ASSISTANT SCOUT MASTER LEAVES FOR CARMEL

Troop No. 2 Gives Benj. Robison, Jr., Farewell Reception at Cabin

Benjamin Robinson, Jr., assistant scout master of Troop 2, Glendale Boy Scouts, is leaving this morning to accept a fine position at Carmel-by-the-Sea, where he will spend the coming four months, except that he will return to Glendale to graduate with his class. He has gotten up the work in his course and has been granted leave of absence by Principal Moyse.

Friday night 22 members of Troop No. 2 gathered at the troop cabin in Verdugo Woodlands for a farewell picnic supper and social function in his honor, parents of a number of the scouts being also guests. In appreciation of what Ben has done for the troop and as an expression of their personal regard, Arthur Barton, senior patrol leader presented the honor guest with fine binoculars mounted in a handsome leather case, a beautiful gift which was a surprise to the recipient, but which he acknowledged in a manner highly satisfactory to his fellow scouts.

He was also presented with a beautiful cake made by the mother of Scout Jack Packard, leader of the Beaver Patrol, the cake being decorated with a beaver design worked out in frosting. Mrs. Goldie also presented a cake which formed part of the party refreshments.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH DEDICATION SET

The delication of the new Christian church at the corner of Colorado street and Louise, will take pace on Sunday, July 2.

The regular Sunday services will be held tomorrow, the sermon for the morning being, "The Problem of a Child." The Young People's meeting will be at 6:30 and evening service at 7:30 with a sermon on "Jesus in Our Town." There will be special music at both services.

PAST PRESIDENT REPORTER MOVES TO GLENDALE

G. H. Boone, Official Stenographer to Woodrow Wilson Settles Here

Mr. Stadt of the Edwards & Wildey Co. reports the sale of the H. T. Balthis home on Burchett street to G. H. Boone, the official court reporter in Judge Reeve's court in Los Angeles.

Mr. Boone was the personal shorthand reporter to former President Woodrow Wilson, and upon the return of President Wilson to Washington from the peace conference at Versailles in 1919, Mr. Boone wsa one of two private stenographers who perpetuated the President's report to the senate foreign relations committee. He also reported the conference between the President and the governors of states and mayors of large cities in the same year.

Mr. Boone came to Los Angeles about a year ago. In Judge Reeve's court he will be at the famous little table where the Harry New, Jr., Arthur Burch and Madalynne Obenchain testimonies were written and will report the trials of the numerous Los Angeles milk barons, indicted by the grand jury last year.

Every modern young man and woman thinks they will be just as free after marriage as before, but did you ever know one that was?

No woman should give way to grief. Let her keep her hair frizzled and everything may come around all right after all.

DICK MICHEL TO BUILD HOMES IN GLENDALE

Edwards & Wildey Announce Sale of Lots for Building Purposes

The Edwards & Wildey Co. report the sale of two lots on Columbus avenue and one on Dorothy drive in their Kenneth Terrace tract to Dick Michel, the well known Glendale builder. Mr. Michel has recently sold all the houses he had under construction and had been searching all over Glendale to find a suitable location for some more of his high class, well built houses. Upon being shown Kenneth Terrace, it was only necessary to take Mr. Michel's order, as the property literally sold itself. "The location of your property, affording both the mountain and valley views, the character and beauty of the homes adjacent to it and those now being built on it, will make your tract the most attractive location for a home in Glendale today, and I consider it a privilege to aid in the tract development," said Mr. Michel.

Edwards & Wildey Co. report their street work progressing very satisfactorily in the Kenneth Terrace tract, and as the major portion of the lot buyers are planning to build, they expect that section of Glendale to more than do its share toward maintaining Glendale's wonderful building record.

Since the Kenneth Terrace tract was opened four months ago, Edwards & Wildey Co. have sold over $80,000 worth of lots at an average price of $1800 each.

MALCOLM PASSES CIGAR AROUND

E. A. Malcolm, the popular real estate man at 205-A North Brand, has a box of cigars on display in his office with the "unusual" sign, "Please take one." These cigars, of course, are not 25-centers, but they were passed on to Mr. Malcolm by a good friend, and he is doing likewise.

People who boast that they never give up sometimes are shown up.

FARES TO BEACHES ARE REDUCED BY P. E.

New Schedule From Glendale and Burbank Effective June 17

The Pacific Electric company announces a sweeping reduction in week-end excursion fares to the beach resorts for 41 of their interior points on its lines where agencies are maintained, effective from June 17 to September 17.

The new excursion fare from Glendale to any of the west beaches is 85 cents per round trip, instead of $1.08 as heretofore. The west beaches include Santa Monica, Ocean Park, Venice, Del Rey Junction, El Segundo, Manhattan beach, Hermosa beach and Redondo beach. This same rate applies to the south beaches, which include San Pedro, Wilmington, Long Beach, Seal Beach and Anaheim landing. The round trip excursion rate to Balboa and Newport beaches is now $1.25 instead of $142. These new rates are effective from June 17 to September 17, inclusive, and are effective on Saturdays and Sundays, with a return limit the Monday following date of sale.

This is the second announcement of excursion fares to the beaches recently made by the Pacific Electric. A few weeks ago the company declared its intention of restoring the former Thursday excursion fare of 40 cents for adults and 20 cents for children from Los Angeles to nearby beaches to be effective from June 22 and continue each Thursday until September 14, inclusive.

REGULATION OF HAWAIIAN TRAFFIC

HONOLULU, June 3.—The regulation of Hawaiian public utilities by a Hawaiian commission, as provided under the Cummins bill, now before congress, instead of by the interstate commerce commission, as at present, will probably be a campaign issue here. The democrats want the Cummins bill passed. The Honolulu Chamber of Commerce recently passed a resolution condemning the bill. The democrats now intend to make a campaign issue of the affair.

NEW SUBDIVISION TO BE OPENED HERE

Dickinson & Gillespie to Cut Up Old Richardson Estate

Announcement is made that one of the closest-in ranches is to be converted into a beautiful home community.

For the past several years the Richardson estate, whose holdings between Los Angeles and Glendale have comprised a great domain, have resisted all efforts of the real estate fraternity to convert their properties into subdivisions, but the pressure of demand finally became so great that the Richardsons have given in and their large properties, fronting on Glendale boulevard and Los Feliz road, which have remained in the ownership of the Richardson family since 1864, are to be thrown open to the public for settlement.

J. W. Byrnes, sales manager for Dickinson & Gillespie, states that announcement of the formal opening of the property will be made in the course of the next few days.

Dickinson & Gillespie have deeded a portion of the Los Feliz frontage to make possible the widening of Los Feliz road between the Los Angeles river bridge and the Pacific Electric tracks to a width of 100 feet.

The W. A. Heitman Co., who have handled the entire Richardson estate for several years, in discussing the sale of this property to Dickinson & Gillespie, stated that many overtures had been made to them for such purchase, but that Dickinson & Gillespie had been selected because of their concentration on the Glendale, Los Angeles district and their phenomenal success with Glendale Manor, the tract immediately opposite the Richardson property.

Dickinson & Gillespie are the fortunate subdividers who have secured this portion of the Richardson property. Fronting on the new Glendale boulevard and bordered on the north by Los Feliz road, the new tract, to be known as Boulevard Manor, will comprise approximately 700 residential lots.

Situated adjoining beautiful Griffith park and plotted in accordance with its natural topography, Boulevard Manor in its complete state will present a picturesque setting. The distance from the center of the city of Los Angeles to the tract is less than five miles, and with a beautiful 80-foot boulevard, bisecting the property and forming a connecting link between Los Feliz and Glendale boulevards, together with a car line running along the entire width of the property.

Graduation Gift Jewelry

A Source of Lasting Happiness and Remembrance

Graduation is a fleeting occasion; existing for a day, and then becoming a part of the past. But the memory and happiness of Graduation will be lastingly preserved, if you give gifts that last. Jewelry is not costly, and its value is enduring. For whomever you wish a gift, our displays afford a suggestion that is sure to be satisfactory.

Visitors Cordially Welcome—Suggestions Gladly Given

The ownership of this well known jewelry store has recently changed. R. L. Cole, who has been engaged in the jewelry business for the past twenty years, and for ten years a member of the firm of Cole Bros., jewelers, of Whittier, is the new owner. The store will be enlarged and remodeled and a complete line of jewelry handled.

MISS LINKOGEL TO GIVE CONCERT

Visit to Old Teacher Encourages Her to Venture on Platform

Mrs. Pearl Curran and daughter Mrs. J. Linkogel and daughters Hazel and Gloria, Mr. and Mrs Leslie Linkogel and litle daughter, Irene, motored to San Francisco last week to visit the daughter of Mrs. J. Linkogel, Mrs. Koppen. While there Miss Hazel Linkogel had a conference with her old violin teacher, Saslovsky, who is much pleased with the progress she is making and who wants her to come to San Francisco next fall and complete her course under him, predicting a great future for this hard working young artist. While there she played in concert, and she is planning to give a public recital in Glendale in the near future. The party returned to Glendale Thursday of the present week in time for Miss Linkogel to take part in the recitals given by the piano department of the Glendale High, Thursday and Friday afternoons.

At these recitals the students in the harmony class, whose compositions were recently given in a program for the music section of the Tuesday Afternoon club, at which Mrs. Dora Gibson was hostess, were invited to contribute. Miss Linkogel played three of her own piano compositions—"A Boat Song;" "Fantasie Impromptu," and "A Minuet." Genevieve Mulligan played as a violin solo her composition, "Canzonetta," with piano accompaniment. The other original numbers were all descriptive songs, "The Owl," by Winifred Parker; "A Garden Romance," by Lois Olmstead; "Some Wisdom," by Frances Wyman, and "Three Funny Little Men," by Lucile Allen.

Mrs. Gibson says she hopes to arrange for an open day program by the department at which the trio for violin, piano and cello, written by Miss Linkogel can be produced, Miss Linkogel playing the violin, Lloyd Knapp the cello and Lois Olmstead the piano parts.

MRS. YOUNG GIVES BEAUTIFUL LUNCHEON

Mrs. H. A. Wilson, Mrs. C. R. Lusby, Mrs. T. M. E. Hamilton, Mrs. S. C. Hamilton, Mrs. Charlotte Brackett were among the guests at a beautifully appointed luncheon given by Mrs. Martha Balcom Young Friday at her home on Laurel avenue, Los Angeles.

A dainty color scheme of yellow was carried out with favors and a large centerpiece. In the afternoon an impromptu program consisting of music and conversation was enjoyed.

This luncheon is the third in a series being given by a group of 15 women from River Falls, Wis. The first one was at the home of Mrs. H. A. Wilson, 125 North Louise street; the second at the home of Mrs. Hernandez, in Edendale. Next Friday it will be given at the home of Mrs. Gates in Pasadena.

MERCHANTS' LUNCH AT BAZAAR

Downing and Cox Arbors Filled With Good Episcopal Spirit

Everybody was busy this morning at the bazaar which was given by the ladies of St. Mark's Guild at the Downing & Cox nursery on South Brand. Spirits—good spirits—ran high, and the way the various things on sale were snatched up was good to see.

The merchants' lunch was served between 11 and 2 and was well patronized. During the day a kitten exhibition was a feature, this being under the direction of the Glendale Cat club.

FIESTA TO BE STAGED IN GLENDALE

Final arrangements for a fiesta under the auspices of the Glendale camp, United Spanish War Veterans and the Glendale Merchants' ball club were completed today with the purchasing of the prizes for the queen contest, which consist of a $300 diamond ring for the first prize, a diamond lavalliere for the second prize and a solid gold wrist watch for the third. The prizes are to be presented to the most popular young lady on the closing night and are at present on display at Arthur Dibbern's jewelry store.

A committee has made arrangements to receive all applications of candidates at the Sport Shop and anyone wishing to enter can do so up to and including Monday, June 5.

Contracts have been closed with shows and riding devices that are on the Pacific coast at present and the lovers of outdoor amusement will be given the best that money can buy. The receipts from the affair are to be used in Glendale. Numerous traveling shows have made offers to furnish amusement but the committee thought that it was best to purchase all the shows on a flat basis, so be ready for Glendale's own show, which starts Monday, June 12, and closes June 17, 1922.

NAZARENE TENT IS MAKING SUCCESS

The revival meetings at the Nazarene tent on Glendale avenue near Broadway are successful and the preachers and teachers from Pasadena university and others have earnestly proclaimed the gospel.

On Sunday, June 4, at 2:30 and 7:30 p. m., Rev. A. M. Hills, D. D., former president of Peniel university, Olivet university, Central Holiness university, Bethany college, Nazarene university, Star Hall Training school at Manchester, Eng., and now dean of Pasadena University Bible college, is expected to preach.

Dr. Hills is considered one of the leading Bible teachers in the holiness ranks. Special meetings will continue every night next week except Saturday night.

On Tuesday Rev. Lineweaver of Pasadena will preach.

ROBINSONS' RECEIVE SAD MESSAGE

A great shock was experienced by H. Benjamin Robinson, 407 North Louise street, when he received a telegram Wednesday morning advising him of the sudden death of his sister, Mrs. McKitrick, of Colton, who recently visited him and was in apparent health when he said goodbye to her.

Funeral services were held Friday in Riverside, from which Mr. and Mrs. Robinson returned in time to be present at the farewell for their son in Verdugo Woodlands.

20 YEARS' SERVICE ROUNDED OUT BY FATHER O'NEILL

Twentieth Anniversary of Ordination Comes on Tuesday, June 6

June 6 marks the 20th anniversary of the ordination of Rev. James S. O'Neill as a priest. Father O'Neill came to Glendale in June, 1907, and at that time there were only 65 members in the Catholic church. They held their services in the G. A. R. hall for about nine months, and from there went to the little wooden church on East Elk avenue where all services were held until the completion of their beautiful million dollar edifice in 1921. At present, there are 1500 members in the church, which shows a tremendous growth. The parish house, next door to the church, is nearing completion.

DRIVE FOR 1000 LEGION MEMBERS IS PLANNED

One thousand members in 30 days is the goal set by Glendale Post No. 127, American Legion, for the membership drive planned last night.

A membership committee of 25 members has been appointetd and divided into sub-committees to handle the various phases of the drive. The sub-committees are as follows: Zoning, Wheelon, chairman, Fortier and Goodman; credentials, Joe Wilson, chairman, Chalmers Day, W. E. Lee, G. Kaemmerling and James Everington; publicity and advertising, Harley G. Preston, chairman, Gibbs, Clarence Edwards; Entertainment, Sid Simon, chairman, Delgardo, Goodman and Herring; old members, Gordon Clayton, chairman, to appoint his own committee; auxiliary, Chalmers Day chairman, H. Prussing and W. W. Warriner; finance, Gordon Clayton, chairman, H. Prussing and E. Moniot; attendance, Crooker, chairman, H. Bunker and Salano; instructions, J. F. McBryde, commander of the post.

The membership committee plans to divide the city into zones and assign Legion men to these zones with instructions to canvass every house. The workers are to get the names of every man or woman eligible to join the Legion and the auxiliary. If the first canvasser cannot secure the membership, the prospective candidate will be visited by other members and canvassed until he or she joins.

It is estimated that there are 1500 men and women in Glendale eligible to membership in either the Legion or the auxiliary and the Glendale post intends to secure at least two-thirds of these eligibles within a month.

James H. Wittmeyer has been appointed chairman of the general committee of 25 on membership.

Other important work transacted at the meeting last night was the adoption of rough plans for the Legion building and auditorium to be erected on the property recently acquired from the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital by the post. These plans were drafted by Dr. William C. Mabry. The plans as drafted by Dr. Mabry are in the rough and were adopted as a general plan for the building and to give the architect something concrete to work on.

They call for a building in the shape of a cross with two arcades one from Broadway, through the auditorium and the other from Jackson street to Isabel. The section of the building facing Broadway will have two stories, the first floor divided into store rooms to be rented, and the second floor to be retained by the Legion for its own use. A covered acrade will connect this building with the main building.

The main building will consist of the auditorium, built to accommodate 3000 members, and two wings with store roms in the first floor. These wings will open direct on the Jackson to Isabel street arcade.

It is tentatively planned to have a soldiers' and sailors' monument erected at the intersection of the two arcades.

Jesse Smith presented the post with a large photograph of Lieut. Lester Meyers, who was killed in France. This picture was presented the post on behalf of Lieut. Meyers' parents.

Comrade Smith also addressed the members on Harry Girard's choral crusade. Mr. Girard will address the post next Friday night and some definite action on the endorsement of this proposition will be taken at that time.

Plans are being developed to form a Glee club in the post, under the direction of Comrade K. Lewis, a well known singer in Los Angeles and a member of the Glendale post.

There were several visitors present from Iowa, Oklahoma and Panama. Two candidates were initiated.

After the meeting refreshments were served. The refreshment committee, headed by Comrade Delgardo, gave the boys a feed that was pronounced as excelling anything that has been offered since the committee started work.

The United States has one-sixteenth of the world's population and nearly two-thirds of the world's telephones.

"For Satisfactory Service and Best Results"

Sagamore Park Appeals Strongly

to people artistically inclined and to those who love Nature's beauties, the arrangement of homesites and improvement of streets will be like a magnificent park. The management, the architect and the landscape artist recently returned from a thorough inspection of Golden Gate Park, at San Francisco, Calif., and the arrangement of streets and parkings of SAGAMORE PARK, together with setting of beautiful shade trees, will be copied largely from Golden Gate Park, which is admitted to be one of the most beautiful in the entire world.

We remind you that the early buyers make the largest profit, and those who want to build a home, to make dreams come true, get the best selection by prompt action.

From our experience and observation we do not hesitate to say that SAGAMORE PARK, in its completeness, will be the most satisfactory investment and make the most gratifying homes of any suburban locality in Southern California.

We speak advisedly and like to prove our statements.

Lyle Creek, Up to Glenn Ranch, Is Direction for the Old Bus On Sunday

Wonderful Bit of Nature Lying 60 Miles East of Glendale in Mountain Country Where Business Ceases Troubling and All Is Rest

Last week we went to the beach, so this week the motorists of Glendale are advised to turn the nose of their old "cutter" toward the mountains—up where the big outdoors is to be found, and where the nerves are given a real, full-grown opportunity to come back.

The trip suggested for this week is without doubt one of the most beautiful in all Southern California and is probably one of the least visited by the motorists of this section. So, let's go this week to Lytle Creek—up to Glenn ranch.

We have all doubtless heard of Lytle Creek canyon, that wonderful little bit of nature lying about 60 miles east of Glendale, but if the motorists of Glendale could be lined up side by side and the demand of "yes" or "no" be made, the chances are that only a mere handful of the motorists could truthfully say they had ever explored the beauties of that charming bit of mountain country, which is the favorite "hideout" of many motorists in Riverside and San Bernardino counties, and also of a very few living as far west as Glendale. This particular canyon is not a recent discovery, for it has been the "stamping ground" of thousands of motorists and camper for many years. Each succeeding summer its beauties lure and backon to the one who knows, even in a limited measure, the wonderful call of the mountains and the hills, and there are many auto owners who respond to this entreaty by making a trip to this canyon, almost weekly throughout the entire summer.

Ever since the advent of the automobile, and this is acquawledged to be the day of the "motor wagon," there has been a growing demand for the mountain drive and the canyon highway—roads that lead deep into the out-of-the-way places in the hills, where the hurry and excitement of the city do not hold sway, and into which the grind of the every-day business life does not penetrate. It is true that there are hundreds of business men and cooped-up housewives who never give the hills so much as a single thought and who know nothing bigger or more wonderful than their own little circle, but be it said to the credit of many motorists that this type of Southern California resident is fast disappearing. The call of the hills is naturally drifting into the blood of the motorists, who are turning their faces toward the big trees, the trout stream and the yucca-covered hills.

But while looking around for some place to go do not "pass up" Lytle Creek canyon, for really it is worthy of attention. The assertion that it is one of the beauty spots of this section, 'publicity" in the truest sense of the word is not being restored to, for this is the whole truth without anything that looks like exaggeration.

Lytle Creek, with its north, south and middle forks, drains the east side of Mt. San Antonio (Old Baldy), just as the San Gabriel and its branches drain the west side. Its mouth is just west of the entrance of the Cajon Pass, at which point its waters unite with those of the pass, flowing down through the cities of San Bernardino and Colton.

To get to Lytle Creek canyon the motorist leaves Glendale via. East Colorado boulevard. Continue to and through Eagle Rock to Pasadena. Continue on Colorado through Pasadena until Santa Anita avenue is reached, where branch north, and continue two blocks, where turn to the right (east) on to the Foothill boulevard. Follow the Foothill boulevard through Monrovia to Azuza, 23 miles from Glendale. From Azuza continue eastward through Glendora, Uplands, Claremont, Cucumonga, and on to Etiwanda avenue, which crosses the boulevard and which is something like 48 miles from Glendale. Turn to the left on Etiwanda avenue to the town of Etwanda. From Glendale to this point pavement is complete, but beyond a good dirt road will be found. The route continues up through Highland, Grapeland and on into the canyon. Turn left onto the canyon road. If the motorist is carrying along his camping equipment he may camp at practically any place along the stream, except the section that has been laid off into cabin sites, but if he is relying upon hotel accommodations he will have to continue along the canyon road to Glenn ranch, where very acceptable accommodations may be secured.

The motorist should have no trouble whatever in making the trip from Glendale to Lytle Creek canyon in four hours, this allowing for the dirt road and the grade that will be encountered while going up the canyon road. So that if the start is made by 8 o'clock in the morning the canyon should be reached by noon. If the motorist is planning to camp over night he might go up Saturday, leaving about 1 o'clock in the afternoon and getting in the canyon in time to make camp before dark.

There is good trout fishing in the creek this time of the year and this along with the many other attractions of the hills will keep the motorist busy until it is time to start for home, which may be as late as 5 o'clock in the afternoon. If the motorists cares to ride home at night, there is an excellent road all the way, he could stay in the ecanyon to even a later hour.

REO SPEED WAGONS INSURE CLEAN-CUT GET-AWAY

Armored, Says Harry E. White, Inc., They Make for Protection

In an effort to lessen the many holdups of bank messengers and clerks who travel to and from banks and commercial houses, the Adams Express company has ordered a fleet of armor-bodied Reo Speed Wagons, which it will put in service in New York, according to Mr. White of the Harry E. White, Inc. Not only is the body bullet-proof, but the windshield and windows are made of a composition that a bullet cannot penetrate. They have stood the test of a 45-calibre naval-type gun.

The body of the wagon has been patterned after an idea by W. M. Barrett, president of the Adams Express company. The closed body of the car is lined with chrome-nickel steel, 5-64 of an inch in thickness. Two thicknesses of laminated wool are placed between the steel and the outside body covering.

The front partition between the driver and the body is of steel, pierced only by one door and two port holes, instead of the usual screen opening. The door is made to swing, opening to the right of the driver's seat.

The only other opening in the body of the car is a door in the rear. This door, as well as the driver's door, is secured with bars, readily adjustable. There are also hasps and forelocks of suitable strength. In addition, both doors are fitted with Yale locks so as to admit of their being unlocked from the outside when not barred.

The car has port holes which are beveled inside and cut to a thickness at the edge not exceeding 3-4 of an inch. These port holes are closed by slides, provided with a rachet so as to permit them to lock in any position. There are two of these port holes on each side wall one in the front door, two in the rear door, and two in the front dash on either side of the hood. The car is lighted by two dome lamps and the usual headlights and dimmer. The ordinary running board is eliminated and, instead, a folding step is provided opposite the outside door on the right-hand side of the car. There are three folding seats in the interior of the car, one on each side of the car at the rear and one on the left side near the front of the body.

WIND DEFLECTORS MEAN COMFORT BEHIND

Need of Device Is Felt Only When Riding in Back

If the man who owns and drives an open touring car, sitting in the sheltered spot behind the wheel, could be transplanted into the back seat and had to sit there without a tonneau windshield to turn the wind, or a robe to cover him, he would begin to appreciate the discomfort his friends and guests are up against when they do ride in that said back seat.

Even in the summer time, in the average section of country were on the Pacific coast, the people in the back seat of the touring car can appreciate some protection from the wind. In the desert the wind may be hot and those backseat riders in that section will appreciate the windshields to break the force of the burning air, but through the mountain and coast regions there are few hours in the day when the wind created in the tonneau by the rapidly moving car does not become uncomfortably cool for those who must occupy that place in the machine.

Car owners can show a nice attention to the comforts of their family and guests by providing wind deflectors, and auto robes. In the last few years there has been a great deal of attention paid to the manufacture of deflectors for both the front seat and back seat positions. Many car owners prefer the open model cars for many reasons, but the deflectors make possible some of the comforts of the enclosed models at little cost. At the Western Auto Supply company stores these articles are given a prominent place because they are so important an accessory and add so much to the comfort of motorists. Deflectors for almost all models of cars are kept on hand and some very attractive displays have been made with them. Some of the better types of deflectors are very beautifully made from plate glass with fine beveled edges, and are made with nickle-plated fittings for installing them on the car. They add greatly to the appearance of the open models and also the resale value. The motorist who is thoughtful of the comfort of those who ride with him will like deflectors on his car.

CADILLAC CAR HIGH SPEED CAUSATION

Light Reciprocating Parts Gives Action and Smooth Running

The high speed and smooth running of the Cadillac 8-cylinder V-type engine are due principally to the reduction of inertia forces accomplished by the use of lighter reciprocating parts. In the pistons especially, is evidenced the elimination of unnecessary weight, made possible by the less severe impulses and smaller cylinders which accompany the multi-cylinder design.

When one considers that in the modern multi-cylinder engine at high speed each piston travels at a tremendously high velocity and stops and starts more than 80 times per second, the relationship between speed and weight of the reciprocating parts becomes clear.

The pistons are of unusually light design, the entire eight pistons weighing no more than two pistons of the average 4-cylinder engine with equal piston displacement. It is worth nothing that in effecting this remarkably light design Cadillac engineers have adhered strictly to the use of the metals which have been scientifically demonstrated to be best adapted to the requirements. Gray cast iron alloy of Cadillac special formula is used. An interesting step is the annealing process, by which any internal strains which may have been left in the casting are relieved. The bearing surface of the pistons is ground to a limit of the one-thousandth part of an inch.

Three concentric piston rings are carried above the wrist-pin. Each ring has two small grooves cut in its circumference which entrap lubricating oil, rendering the seal against compression leakage more effective.

The wrist pin is supported by bosses. A locking screw in one boss securely holds the wristpin from turning in the piston or moving longitudinally. The pin is of nickel steel, caee hardened and ground to the limit of three-thousandths of an inch.

GOOD MAXWELL IS HOME CAR AND SO IS EXHIBITED

At Exposition in New York It Is Only Machine Shown

At the "Own Your Home Exposition," recently held in New York city, the committee in charge paid a high honor to the good Maxwell when they selected it as the only car to be exhibited at the show.

"This is a fitting tribute to those qualities of the good Maxwell which make it essentially a car of the home," commented Lyman P. Clark, of the Glendale Motor Car company, local Maxwell dealers, upon hearing that the good Maxwell had been chosen to represent the entire automobile industry at the exposition. The moderate price, the beauty, the comfort and roominess, the reliable low-cost service for which it is noted, stamp the good Maxwell as the logically ideal car for the family. It is the final equipment to a complete home.

"And the decision of the executive committee of the exposition to include a line of motor cars among the exhibits, is recognition of the great importance of the automobile as a means of transportation enjoyed by and benefiting to the entire family."

The "Own Your Home Exposition" is an outgrowth of the "own your home" movement started by the department of labor of the United States government some years ago, the work being undertaken by a special bureau of the department. When the war came, the extensive program which had been planned was necessarily halted, but in 1919 the work was resumed, and in that year the first "Own Your Home Exposition" was held in New York. This is now an annual institution, widening its scope each year.

Carbon content of tool steel varies from .07 per cent to 1 per cent. The average tool steel contains .09 per cent. These alloy tool steels are used in the manufacture of milling cutters, lathe tools, dies and other parts requiring the qualities of great strength, hardness and resistance to wear.

LYMAN AND LUND TAKE BAT STATION

Lyman & Lund, corner of Broadway and Louise street, have taken the agency for the well-known Dry Storage Battery, which is proving to be a great seller, wherever it has been introduced. This battery requires no water and is said by experts to be a great winner.

Lyman & Lund will also give service on all makes of batteries and will do ignition work.

Pre-ignation is due to overheating of the engine, from a failure of the water circulating system or lack of sufficient lubricating oil.

Slight play or lost motion in the timer may be caused by a poor ground connection between the revolving parts of the timer and the engine proper, owing to the lost motion between the worn parts, namely the bushings and gears.

When buying a used automobile first inspect the dealer before looking over the car.

Extra tires not in use on the car should be kept in a dry, cool and dark place.

Add a small box of wire nails of different sizes in the tool box. They are useful to replace lost cotter pins, etc.

Never dash madly into mud holes, water-bars, etc., and expect to have anything left of the car at the end of the year.

Dry cells should be wired together from the zinc of one cell to the carbon of the next in the series.

Oldsmobile

Two Outstanding Values of 1922

The Oldsmobile Models 46 and 47 are powerful cars, in whose possession their owners take extreme pride. You can climb the steepest hills, or ride on the roughest roads in comfort and with real pleasure.

Model 46 has the long wheelbase and extremely powerful motor you need on long, hard trips.

The "47" is the light, handy car for city use, but with a powerful, flexible motor that carries you over the highway at five to seventy miles an hour.

You must see these cars and ride in them to realize their wonderful value. Immediate delivery may be had on a limited number.

ORATION WHICH BROUGHT HONOR TO HIGH

"Trend of Civilization" by Paul Hutchinson, Becomes Famous

Following is in part the winning oration delivered by Paul Hutchinson, representing the Glendale high school at the competition held in the old high school building in Los Angeles last night, and which resulted in the beautiful loving cup being brought to Glendale high to stay.

"Seventeen hundred years ago, Rome stood at the pinnacle of world power, but below the surface was corruption and immorality, which soothsayers of the old empire predicted would bring about Rome's destruction. And the people scoffed—but Rome fell.

"A little over a century ago, France was the head of an empire greater than Europe had ever before dreamed of. The French and their moral standards were continually condemned by those who foresaw its downfall. The people scoffed, but the French empire fell.

"Today the United States holds a seat of great international prestige. But warnings are freely made that the present trend is leading to degeneracy. And the people scoff, but the American race will awaken.

"If you believe that history repeats itself, then here is the warning to the United States, for in the history of the world great nations have risen and flourished for a day, but have always fallen. Like the eternal tides of the sea which surge up into waves of power, so have nations surged into glory, and, like the ebb which inevitably follows, these nations have ever subsided.

"The American people would pretend to laugh at the warning and predictions of those who have studied the present situation. We ignore them, just as people ignored like warnings seventeen hundred years ago; just as such were ignored a century ago, and pretend that our present racial and economic troubles are due to the late war.

"Let us analyze the conditions as they now stand. It is certain that we are now living in a state without parallel. Never before has this country seen such unrest, so many divorces, so much crime, such disregard for moral standards, such seething of a whole nation hurrying in a mad rush for money and fame.

"We have progressed with leaps and bounds in science and invention. But, alas, our inventions, instead of being put to work for the good of humanity, have been seized by greed and made the instruments of aggression. Thus is selfishness sowing wide the seeds of dissolution.

"Our churches are empty, but our jails and penitentiaries are filled to overflowing. Our courts of justice are overburdened with the task of bringing out order from chaos.

"As a nation we cannot pursue so unrighteous a course and live. Now mark you, how closely the following conditions compare with those to which historians attribute the fall of the great nations in past history.

"Of all countries, America attaches the least importance to the seability of the family. In recent years America has had twice as many divroces as all the rest of the civilized world put together, and divorces are increasing in this country three tmies as fast as the population.

"As for crime, America's morals rae again challenged with the great tidal wave of disorder that is sweeping over the country. In Los Angeles there are more crimes committed than in European cities five or six times as large, where living conditions are even worse.

"Then as to loyalty. In the present day immigrant America does not find that fervid patriotism for the 'land of the free' over which the earlier immigrants were enthusiastic.

"It is because of these that America is being warned to change her moral standards, lest they lead to the degeneracy of the American race.

"America must lead the world in the spriit of internationalism, which the age demands, for by helping other nations we help ourselves. We must lead the world for disarmament, lest all civilization be destroyed. God forbid that mankind shall ever again experience such horrors as those which war has brought upon us.

"Then, when we have done these things will the United States come into the place planned for it from the beginning. Then shall we have justified the dreams of the Pilgrims who endured the birth pangs of the nation, the hopes of the suffering of the men in Valley Forge, the visions of those who died on the fields of Gettysburg and the dreams of those whose silent bodies lie in Flanders field.

"The white crosses above them, like outstretched arms, appeal to us. We must not fail them."

REDS AND GERMANS FORM ALLIANCE OF NECESSITY

Closer Together Today as Result of Mutual Needs, Says Correspondent

MOSCOW, (By Mail to United Press)—The Russo-German bloc, so long feared by Western European statesmen, has finally become a concrete reality with every prospect of continuing an important factor in continental politics, no matter what government is in power in Russia.

Less than four years after they ceased shooting at each other, Russia and Germany are closer today than any other two large powers in Europe—politically, economically and diplomatically.

Necessity and circumstances, aided by community of interests against the Entente and the latter's hostility toward both, have accomplished the one thing western diplomacy has striven most to forestall.

In concluding its first major alliance since the Red Revolution, the Kremlin made the first universally popularly acclaimed move it has since it took power. The inauguration of the new economic policy was of more personal moment, of course, but even it did not call forth such general expression of approval, because at that time few had faith in the Kremlin's sincerity of purpose or intention to execute its promises.

Seldom if ever in history nas national sentiment undergone such a complete face-about in such a short time. From peasants to merchants, intelligencia to laborer, and Communist to non-party man, not only has all vestige of anti-Teutonism been removed, but there has arisen a decided appreciation of comonness of interests with the Germans and a desire to recognize that fact and make open community of cause as soon as possible.

Fathers and mothers who lost sons in the war have remarked to me gravely the last few weeks:

"An alliance with Germany is an economic and political necessity for Russia. We do not admire Prussianism any more than in 1914, but we cannot deny that the two countries are natural allies, both on account of their geograpnical positions and their industrial and agricultural interests. We might better recognize this reality sooner than later, and take what profit we can."

I have found this view in all classes, rich, poor, ignorant, educated.

Drotshky drivers have allowed their horse to jolt from one deep hole to another in seeming nonconcern to explain how they had changed in their feelings since 1917.

"The German wasn't such a bad fellow. We fought him and cursed him because we were told to. We didn't know why we were fighting or for what. Perhaps the German peasants (all drotshky drivers are ex-peasants, and their chief interest in other countries centers accordingly) shot at us for the same reason."

Many said they were not treated too badly in German prison camps. Certain it is that the transplanting of hundreds of thousands from Russia to German prison camps during the war had almost as great an effect upon the ignorant masses, comparatively speaking, as the presence of several million doughboys had upon popular ideas of the world in America. The contrast was even greater, coming as so many did from tiny villages on the Steppes which had bounded their world from them all their lives and had likewise represented the center of creation for their fathers and grandfathers.

By strange irony, Germany's prison camps proved a great educational factor in the life of its enemy country, for the peasants in the Teuton contonment camps went back to villages from one end of Russia to another with a new and larger idea of the world. Nansen commented upon this upon his return from several tours of the entire famine regions and I personally noted it during my 350 verst sleigh ride through the Tartar Republic last December.

Even prisoners who were maltreated do not seem to have retained much hard feeling. Ill treatment was not new to them, even at the hands of their own, and with that odd Gentle philosophy of the peasant child-mind, they see little cause for surprise or resentment that an enemy should not handle them softly.

And the idea that neighbors ought to be friends is not too complex for their simple intellects. From this is but a step to friendship in international politics.

A Russo-German alliance strikes them as one of the most natural of arrangements. The thing tnat surprises them is that it wasn't done long ago.

"It is to Russia's advantage to do most of her trading with Germany," one of Russia's prominent manufacturers (before the war) remarked yesterday. "Germany is the only large country for the moment that can exchange with Russia on anything like equal terms. This is not only on account of the conditions of both countries' valuta.

"Germany and Russia can trade without competing with each other. Germany can give us machines and manufactured products which we need badly. We can give her raw products that she needs quite as much. Between Germany and Russia there is not the conflict and clash of interests that exists, for instance, between Russia and France or England.

Russo-German commerce can be mutually beneficial.

"Germans also understand Russia better than other Europeans. They knew us long before the war and know how to operate under conditions prevailing here."

BUY A DIRECTORY CARD

AUTOMOBILE CLUB TO WELCOME ALL VISITORS AT BOUNDARIES

Every auto owner who visits Southern California this summer is going to be given a radiator "courtesy tag."

These labels, of enameled metal, and made in Los Angeles, will be distributed through the 24 branch offices and the Glendale headquarters of the Automobile Club of Southern California.

Placed in a prominent position on the car's radiator, the label will read "Southern California Guest."

Wherever these signs are observed by civic or county authorities special favors will be shown the auto owner carrying the tag. These courtesies have been arranged for by officials of the Auto Club for all visitors who display the radiator emblems.

Each of the thirteen southern counties has entered into the spirit of welcome for the thousands of eastern and northern motorists who are going to pour into this part of the state during June, July and August.

Ten thousand tags have been ordered and five thousand are now ready for distribution by the Auto Club. Local car owners who have friends from out of the state here are asked to escort these friends to a point where they can obtain the guest tag.

Every car bearing a "foreign" license should be so labeled this summer. The tags will be distributed free of charge and will serve as a handsome souvenir for the easterner when he returns to his native city.

It will be the stamp of Southern California's approval.

The Nearly Perfect Crime

By JOHN BRECK

Can there be a perfect crime? It seems to me the offense against law and order I hereby chronicle came very near to being one. It was chicken stealing.

The little settlement known as "the Flume" because it nestles where the big trough which carries irrigation water from the mountains crosses the highway, was all agog. Every coop missed some sprightly pullet, due to begin spring laying, or some motherly "cluck" already eloquent of her maternal yearnings. Guns stood behind kitchen doors, and dogs had cried the alarm so often their very owners grew skeptical of them.

"He lives some'eres clost," asserted the gaunt storekeeper, pushing up his walrus moustache to stroke his chin. "'Cause Twombley's, down on the flat there, ain't lost a bird. Eddie thinks he's a skunk, 'cause the dogs don't seem to tackle him. I say they can't find his trail. So 'taint coyote nor bobcat, neither one. Weasel, most likely; got 'em hid right under somebody's back kitchen."

It was not strange that he should leave no footprint for redwood needles carpeted the earth, but why no scent? Why did no flashlight reveal him? Why were no feathers found? I offered to try a hand at detecting. And was scorned. Mountain pride would never admit any smarty from the valley could possible help them. But I went, all the same.

It was bad going, like walking on a wet sponge except for the slippery clay banks. My defiance being aroused I cast an eye on Twombley's flat, now an inundated meadow where insatiable frogs were still loudly praying for more rain. tIs gate being closed, the flume itself was the dryest, as well as the highest path in sight, a bit narrow, perhaps, but its eighteen-inch side walls gave me a safe feeling. Two hundred yards or so down hill it angled slightly. Just beyond the turn where no eye, but mine and the hawk's would ever find them, were feathers galore!

I could look back and see the sapling which made a ladder, for such as can climb, at the chicken coops. The next one below grew up from a pleasant thicket whose twigs were beckoning that it hid a coon if I had a mind to call on him. Canny rascal, he might be right over their heads when they flashed their light and they would not see him. Lucky thing I was not sworn to reveal him!

I, for one, shrewdly suspect there was never a crime but some one beside the criminal had known the guilty secret—yet, mayhap, hold his tongue.

Radio and Wire Phones Are Not at All Alike

After considerable study the telephone engineers have come to the conclusion that Radio and wire telephony have entirely different fields and functions which do not conflict.

The natural characteristic of Radio and wire transmission are fundamentally different. One of these systems performes a duty for which the other is unsuited, and each is supplementing the other to the end that all important needs for communication are being provided for as rapidly as they arise.

The use of wires is necessary for handling the large amounts of traffic on land, which must be done with certainty and minimum of cost. We can plainly see where Radio will render a service of the greatest value for communication over wide stretches of water, with moving conveyances generally, for a host of maritime and military puroposes and for the broadcasting of information. It wouud pear that these fields mentio are the ones in which the Ra phone will be of greater impo ance.

It has often been said, that, the course of scientific deve ment been reversed so that Ra transmission preceded transm sion by wire, the discovery t wires can be used to guide ether waves would be conside one of the marvels of science. their use, the otherwise unc trolled ether waves are cau to follow predetermined pathwa

IMPROVED IN VALUE!

It's a fact! A lot of cars we handle are in better shape when we are through with them than when they came from the factory.

UYS JEWETT CAR AFTER LONG SHOPPING

rchitect Mays Considers Them All, Says Sunset Motor Company

After shopping for more nan o weeks Mr. Mays, prominent hitect and contractor of Glen- e, bought a Jewett automobile s week," said the manager of Sunset Motor company, this rning. "Mr. Mays stipulated t ih nis business it was abso lutely necessary to have an automobile with power, pep, and stability at a minimum cost. In this new car Page, veteran builder of high-quality sixes—offers you his ideal of 6-cylinder power, applied to 5-passenger comfort and efficiency.

"The mighty Jewett motor develops a full 50-horse power. It places, therefore, at your command, a surplus of power for the steepest hills, the roghest roads, the deepest mud. The other Jewett details are in complete harmony with the motor, each supplying the ample strength to handle and apply the great power developed in the mighty motor. The Jewett is built to endure. Of course, you will want to confirm every one of these statements by a ride in this remarkable news six. You will find it, we confidently predict, the kind of a car you'll be proud of."

GIVE TOOL LIST FOR RADIO WORK

"You know a workman by his tools," is the old adage but it is not always true. You will often see a fine piece of work turned out with an old jack knife and a hammer. It is, however, more necessary for the average man to have tools than the real genius. Some of the tools necessary for the average man to work on Radio apparatus are as follows: One pair of long nose pliers; a good ratchet screw-driver; a jack knife; small hammer; one soldering iron; half dozen clips for experimental work; one hand drill; one mill file; one sheet of No. 1 sandpaper; one small vise; one hacksaw; and a box of assorted machine screws. Have a box tc keep these tools in so that they will not be lost.

NEW YORK COUNCIL PLANS 1923 SHOW

NEW YORK.—Renville H. McMann, president of the Executive Radio Council of the Second District, announces that the council's next annual Radio show will be held the first week in March, 1923.

The plans call for taking one of the largest armories in the city so that all visitors and exhibitors can be comfortably accommodated.

Mr. McMann wishes it made clear that the Radio Council has no connection with any other exhibit.

FORD CARS HIT HIGH MARK OF SALES

Detroit Factory Reports Daily Average of 5210 Retail Sales

According to a report just received from the Ford Motor company, Detroit, a daily average of 5,210 retail sales of Ford cars and trucks had been reached by the close of April in the United States alone.

Ford sales of cars and trucks for the month, including both domestic and foreign totaled 127,249. This establishes a new high record, exceeding the largest previous month, June 1921, by 15,467.

The sale of Fordson tractors has also been steadily climbing. A total of 11,181 Fordsons were sold during April in the United States, a daily average of 469 having been reached by the end of the month. This gives the tractor a new high sales record, and shows 100 percent increase over the best month in 1921.

The Ford company is enjoying a banner year in all departments. Output of Ford cars and trucks for the year, according to present estimates, will exceed 1,100,000, which represents a ten percent increase over 1921.

The Ford factory at Detroit is now operating at full capacity, having a force of more than 40,000 men on the payroll. The scheduled output for May will probably reach 135,000 cars and trucks, which will be applied against orders approximating 165,000. Despite the attempt of the factory and the 23 assembling plants in the United States to produce a sufficient number of cars to meet the unusually heavy demand, it has been impossible in most cases for the Ford dealers to meet the demand.

DON'TS FOR GOOD CAR OWNERS

The Other Folks Will Be Cared for by the Police

In line with the "safety first" policy of the State Motor Vehicle Department, Director Charles J. Chenu has just issued a schedule of "don'ts" as a guide to the motorists of California. The schedule follows:

Don't fail to give to another vehicle its share of the road under all conditions.

Don't fail to give proper signals before stopping, turning or changing the course of your vehicle. If you cannot give a clearly visible hand and arm signal, have your vehicle equipped with an approved mechanical or electrical signalling device.

Don't ride a bicycle or motorcycle at night without lights.

Don't drive a horse-drawn vehicle at night without a light visible from all directions.

Don't pass a vehicle proceeding in the same direction unless the road ahead on the left hand side is clear for 100 yards.

Don't pass a vehicle at an intersection.

Don't pass street cars faster than ten miles per hour.

Don't exceed speed limits.

Don't operate your car unless the registration certificate is displayed in the driver's compartment of your car properly signed.

Don't drive a car unless you have an operator's license properly signed in your possession.

Don't operate your automobile if the driver's view to the rear is obstructed unless a mirror is installed so as to reflect a view of the road for at least 200 feet behind.

Don't fail to have a red flag (or lantern at night) on any load overhanging four feet or more to the rear.

Don't carry luggage extending to the left side more than 12 inches beyond the body of your automobile.

Don't fail to have a red light on a trailer at night.

Don't fail to have your headlights properly adjusted and approved as prescribed by the Motor Vehicle Act.

Don't use a greater candlepower lamp than is approved by the Motor Vehicle Department with any device, home-made or manufactured.

Don't fail to have a lighted tail light at night.

Don't use a spot light that can be raised in violation of the law.

Don't fail to give aid in case of accident. Violation of this rule is punishable by fine of $5000 or imprisonment for five years.

Don't violate the law and you won't get into trouble.

"Conductor," screamed the woman who carried many bundles, as she paused on the platform of a crowded street car. "I thought I told you that I wanted to get off at Kenwood avenue!"

"But madam—" began the conductor.

"Don't you say a word! I know all about your car being full and about you not being able to remember where everybody gets off. I have heard all that before!"

"But, madam——" again commenced the poor conductor.

"You may be sure," poured on the woman. "I shall report you for your impudence, too!"

She alighted and the car started up again.

Then the conductor touched his cap and for the first time being able to get a word or two in sideways, respectfully called after the woman being left behind:

"Very sorry, madam, but Kenwood avenue is half a mile farther on."

CARBURETOR IS A VITAL PART SAYS HE

Needs Close Watching, for There Trouble May Start

The carburetor is one of the most important features of the automobile, according to an authority in Los Angeles. After making this statement this fellow goes on to say:

"If the soldier cannot convert army rations into army requirements of mileage, endurance and fighting spirit he is disqualified—regardless of his feet. In like manner a motor car with perfect tires, fine power plant and a nifty streamline body, is 'vanity and vexation of spirit' if its carburetor cannot efficiently 'digest' 1922 gasoline.

"When mileage-per-gallon falls below normal, 'motor debility' sets in. Only part of the gasoline is then converted into motor digested vapor before it enters the cylinders.

"Fifty per cent of it may be in such semi-liquid form that it will not explode at the right time in the firing-chamber. That portion which does not explode is wasted, so far as power and mileage are concerned.

"But worse than this, wasting results, because undigested gasoline is charred into carbon that clogs spring-quality in piston-rings, anchors them in a set position so that they do not expand freely to seal the space between pistons and cylinder walls. Compression then slips past them into the base of motor.

"Undigested gasoline pits with hard carbon the valve-heads so they do not seat properly, and soots the spark-plugs so they cannot fire efficiently.

"When the cylinder rings become carbon-clogged so they do not seal compression, part of the undigested gasoline, condensing on cylinder walls, seeps down past them into the motor base.

"There it 'cuts' the main body of oil into a 'soap' instead of a lubricant. This soapy emulsion of oil and gasoline is thrown back into the lubricating system, producing friction, heat, noise, vibration, rapid wear of all moving parts, reduced power and still lower mileage-per-gallon of gasoline used.

"Then, on to the repair shop to have carbon burnt out, a new set of piston-rings fitted, cylinders rebored, maybe."

WILD FLOWERS ARE SWEPT FROM ROADSIDE

Gigantic Yucca Is in Danger of Extinction

Motorists have become too enthusiastic about wild-flowers in the southern part of the state.

No sooner did the Auto Club of Southern California issue a suggestion to the motoring public to get out in the open and enjoy the beautiful flowers on the hills than almost the entire motoring population moved en masse out onto the highways.

Now there is scarcely a wildflower to be found along any of the main roads.

Despite the fact that it is against the law to cut or pick the gigantic yuccas which dot the Southern California foothills, forming an important part of the water shed, thousands of motorists have nipped off the big blooms and carried them home.

Scores of complaints have poured into Auto Club offices in every county, asking that some warning be issued to motorists not to strip the country of the flowers.

Eastern visitors are here, and they are pouring into this part of the state by the thousands now, declare to club officials that the flowers are a singularly important attraction and that they also decry the activity of local auto owners in cutting them.

"If you must have flowers, then raise domestic blossoms in your own yards at home and help beautify the towns and cities, but leave the wild-flowers to bloom and deposit their seeds along the roads and on the hills," is the official request just issued by the Automobile Club from its touring bureau.

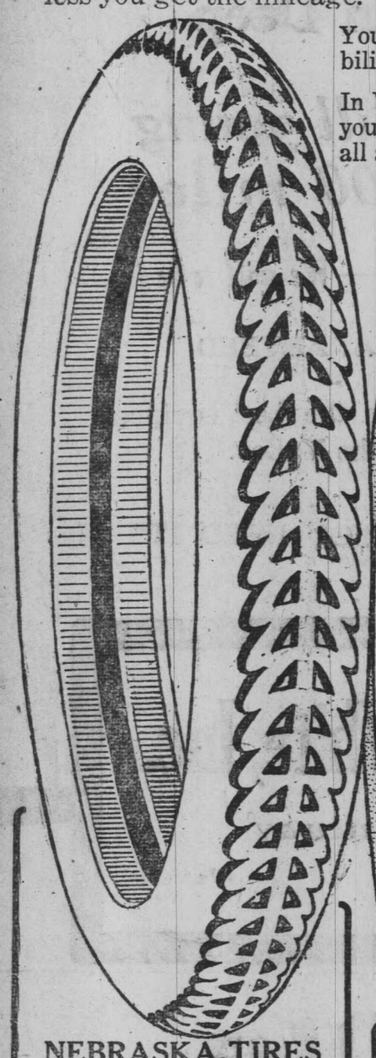
SMITH MISSES SIGHT OF CAR

Someone Buys His New Chevrolet Model While Dealer Is Fishing

C. L. Smith, fisherman de luxe, and incidentally local Chevrolet dealer, has been waiting with great expectations for the time when he should see the new 490 model coupe. Mr. Smith went fishing last Saturday and the new coupe came in Monday morning and was sold and delivered Monday night. Now C. L. is running a want ad asking the man who bought it to please drive around to 400 East Broadway and let him see the new model. Mr. Smith expects a carload of sedans in early next week but it will be a week or so before he can get another coupe, as the factory is far behind in production on this model.

WESTERN AUTO'S TIRES

No matter how much or how little you pay for your tires, you don't get value unless you get the mileage. It is miles you are buying, NOT fabric and rubber.



Your only assurance that you will get this mileage is the responsibility of the house from which you buy your tire.

In Western Auto Stores you will find just exactly the type of tire you prefer, from a low priced fabric tire to the very best cords, but all are first quality new fresh stock and are fully guaranteed.

We realize that no matter how low the price, unless the merchandise gives the satisfaction and service expected, it is futile to expect you to come back again. We have built up confidence in our organization by selling only such merchandise as will live up to every expectation of the customer. Our low prices and exceptional values come as a natural result of volume business through fifty stores and a "factory to you" distribution. INVESTIGATE!

The elevations of the grades are given in feet above the City Datum Plane and refer to the top of curbs. The curb lines above referred to are parallel to and eighteen (18) feet distant on either side from the center line of Adams Street.

SECTION 2. That certain street heretofore unnamed, or known as North Adams Place and formerly constituting Lot C of said Tract No. 1374, is hereby named North Adams Place. The grade of said North Adams Place from the easterly line of aforesaid Lot B to the easterly line of aforesaid Tract No. 1374 be and the same is hereby established as follows:

Along the northerly curb line of North Adams Place the grade shall be as follows:

At its intersection with the easterly line of said Lot "B"	630.70
At a point one hundred fifty and sixty-five hundredths (150.65) feet easterly of said intersection	631.30
At a point two hundred, (200) feet easterly of last mentioned point	634.00
At its intersection with the easterly line of said Tract No. 1374	634.60

Along the southerly curb line of North Adams Place the grade shall be as follows:

At its intersection with the easterly line of said Lot "B"	630.20
At a point one hundred eighty-one and seventy-five hundredths (181.75) feet easterly of said intersection	631.00
At a point two hundred (200) feet easterly of last mentioned point	633.50
At its intersection with the easterly line of said Tract No. 1374	634.10

That between the above designated points of elevation the grade shall conform to straight lines joining those points on the same side of North Adams Place, excepting that the point of intersection of the grade line on the northerly side of North Adams Place one hundred fifty and sixty-five hundredths (150.65) feet easterly from the easterly line of said Lot "B" and on the northerly side three hundred fifty and sixty-five hundredths (350.65) feet easterly from the easterly line of said Lot "B" and on the southerly side directly opposite thereto shall be the point of intersection of the tangents of a parabolic vertical curve one hundred (100) feet in length and extending fifty (50) feet easterly and westerly from said point of intersection and that said curve shall supplant the straight lines within said limits.

The elevation of the grades given are in feet above the City Datum Plane and refer to top of curbs. The curb lines above referred to are parallel to and eighteen (18) feet distant on either side from the center line of North Adams Place.

SECTION 3. The City Clerk shall certify to the passage of this ordinance and shall cause the same to be published by one insertion in the Glendale Daily Press, a daily newspaper of general circulation, published and circulated in said City of Glendale, and thereupon and thereafter the same shall be in full force and effect.

Adopted and approved this 1st day of June, 1922.

EAST SIDE BOOM MAKES SEVERAL CHANGES

Mueller's Market to Move, Another Buys in and a Realty Office Opens

More changes and additions are scheduled for the East End. About June 1 the Mueller market will be moved from the building next to the Eagle Rock bank, which has been purchased by the Security Trust and Savings bank of Los Angeles, and will locate in a new store at 738 East Colorado boulevard. A new ice plant cooling system is to be put in and other equipment to make a market and grocery second to none in the city.

The popular market at 728 East Colorado boulevard has been sold by C. A. Schulze to George T. Vallance, a native of Scotland, brother-in-law of the famous Harry Lauder, who comes here from Nova Scotia. He says he has conducted a meat business in not only his native country, but England, Ireland, Canada and the United States. His wife and children are expected soon. He will be an addition to the already remarkable number of talented entertainers in Eagle Rock, for he is a singer and character delineator. Mr. and Mrs. Schultze intend to rest for a while.

Another real estate office has been opened at 726 East Colorado boulevard, by the efficient little woman, Mrs. S. J. Scholfield, who was in charge of the Chas. B. Guthrie office in the same block until she suffered a long illness at a hospital. Her father, W. L. Sheppard, and Dr. Liles, will be associated with her and they are ready to list properties for sale and fill the wants of prospective buyers.

DREDGE TOURS EAST

W. C. Dredge, of the popular firm of Dredge and Crilly, who have the meat department in the Eagle Rock public market, started East by automobile last week, with his family, to be present at a reunion of relatives in Green Bay, Wis. On the way they will visit the Grand Canyon of the Colorado, going from there to St. Louis. The Yosemite valley will be one of the places visited on the return trip. They expect to arrive in Eagle Rock about September 1.

MRS. MARY C. KENNEDY

Mrs. Mary C. Kennedy of 159 Windermere avenue, who had long been an invalid, passed away on Saturday, May 27, and was buried in Rosedale cemetery, Los Angeles, on Monday. The funeral was held at undertaking parlors in Hollywood, Mrs. Kennedy's son-in-law, Rev. Dr. L. A. Core of Bareilly, India, officiating. Seven children survive. They are Mrs. L. A. Core of Bareilly, India; Mrs. Elmer E. Ellsworth of Hollywood; William H. Kennedy of Los Angeles, Emery F. Kennedy of Des Moines, Ia., and Karl Kennedy and the Misses Anna and Gertrude Kennedy of Eagle Rock.

HARRY NEILSEN GIVES CONCERT AT EAGLE ROCK

Returns from Study in New York; Heard on Decoration Day

Before Harry F. Neilson, pianist and instructor, went to New York, a year or so ago, to study technic under leading masters in that city, he was recognized as a musician of great promise. Last Tuesday evening, in the Women's clubhouse, he was heard for the first time in public since his call home to attend the funeral of his father, at a concert under the auspices of the Hancock Music company. The evening of Decoration Day was not auspacious for a large audience, with many residents away at the seaside or mountains and others reaching home late and fatigued after a day of motoring, but those present enjoyed a great treat and were enthusiastic in applause. Mr. Neilsen undoubtedly has a great future before him; he may already be ranked as a virtuoso. His exacting program, for which he used, as always, a Knabe grand piano, was rendered with faultless mastery, revealing power, feeling, and a fine sense of restraint and delicacy in certain passages, combined with skillful execution and a freedom from the annoying mannerisms to which some pianists are prone.

Sharing with him the honors of the evening was the well-known lyric soprano singer in Los Angeles, Minnie Gazzalo Love, charming in personality and delightful as a vocalist with her purity of tone, the upper notes clear and soft as those of a flute. In a rose-colored gown harmonizing with the floral decorations of the stage, she was a picture pleasant to look upon. All her numbers were insistently encored and her comment after the concert was over, "What a fine audience!" showed appreciation of the spirit of the persons in attendance.

The program was as follows:

PART 1

a. Prelude in C minor..... Czerwonky
b. Gavotte ..... Gluck-Brahms
c. March Wind .....MacDowell
d. Song of the Mesa ..... Homer Grunn
e. Prelude in G minor ..... Rachmaninoff

Harry Neilsen

PART 2

Arias—
a. Amy's Song, from Shanewis ..... Cadman
b. Vissi D'Arte, from La Tosca ..... Puccini

Minnie Gazzalo Love

PART 3

a. Etude ..... Chopin
b. Prelude, Op. 28, No. 18... ..... Chopin
c. Fantaisie-Impromptu (Posthumous) ..... Chopin
d. Polonaise Op. 40, No. 1 (Military) ..... Chopin

Harry Neilsen

The Four Winds—
The North—The West—The East—The South ..... Grace A. Freebey

The concert was given under the auspices of the Hancock Music company, 114 East Colorado boulevard.

SUNDAY SERVICES AT EAGLE ROCK

Rev. B. B. Weatherall's sermon Sunday morning, in the Presbyterian church will be on "The Reality of Sin an dthe Power of God." The evening service will be conducted by the graduating class of Occidental college, as is the custom, called "Senior Class Night." The class president, Harold McClellan, will preside. Among those who wil ltake part in the speaking are Campbell Dean, salutatorian of the class, Allan McRae, valedictorian, and Woodbridge O. Johnson, who is studying for the ministry. The music of the service will be rendered by the class quartette. There will be a vesper service in charge of the Christian associations in the church, following the baccalaureate sermon of President Remsen Dubois Bird at the college stadium in the afternoon. Sunday school at 9:30.

"Our Changing Conception of the Church," will be the subject of Rev. E. Morgan Isaac's sermon in the Congregational church, Sunday morning. New members will be received and the rite of communion will be celebraed. The evening meeting will open at 8 o'clock, with the exhibit of one reel of a moving picture, "The Trail of the Forty-niner." Reginald Marshall, the expert performer on the marimophone and xylophone, will play several selections, after which the pastor will answer the following questions which have been sent in to him: What is the cause of increased domestic trouble? Is not the modern man an unbeliever? If Jesus came to America, what in your opinion is the first thing He would do? Should Eagle Rock have a board of censorship of the moving pictures? What has Christian Science contributed to religion? Why is it that the church has so little to say of physical healing, when Jesus gave it the most prominent place in His ministry? Sunday school at 9:45; Young People's meeting at 6:30.

Whitsunday will be celebrated by the Episcopalians, beginning with holy communion at 7 a. m.

Hereafter the masses of the Catholic church will be celebrated at 7 and 9 a. m., instead of at 8 and 10 o'clock.

Methodist services at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.; Sunday school at 9:45; Epworth League meeting at 6:30. Christian Science services in the Women's clubhouse at 11 a. m.; Sunday school at 9:45.

PERSONALITY TALKS CLOSE

The Rev. E. Morgan Isaac Ends Lectures of Spring Months

The last lecture in Rev. E. Morgan Isaac's course on Personality was given Wednesday evening and treated of "Personality as Related to the Hereafter." "We wonder," said the speaker, "if people of note on earth will carry with them to spirit life the same characteristics they had here. It is a tremendously interesting question. In our desire to know these things lies our hope, for it is the very soul of progress. We must do some thinking, and that is hard work.

"Man's mind is his capital stock. Every man has been given the power to make something of himself and that power lies in his mental faculties. We all have to begin with thought. Advance along any particular line is due to the thought that has been applied to that line. The age in which we live tends to place emphasis on possessions. This is good so far as it goes, but true progress is where the Infinite placed it—on the I Am, one must be and do. Service is one of the most important things in the world today, but not so important as being.

"The image of the Eternal is in every human being. Through it, the Son in you, the Father can be reached. That impersonation of God within you is the very root of regeneration, as meant in the Bible, it is man getting away from the animal in him and realizing his sonship. How enter into this relationship? By the affirmation of sonship.

"We come into the world with a subconscious, impersonal selfhood, and we leave it with a personal subconscious selfhood. The conscious mind functions through the brain, in this life, power is given from universal mind. As we make ourselves here, we form our future character. The thing that is unfixed here will be unfixed in the life to come. This is an awful thought! The things we have made in our subconsciousness are what we are going to take with us. If we have used our faculties in the highest sense, it may be our task in the hereafter to teach others who have failed to do so. Would not that be a beautiful service? I can not imagine a finer occupation."

CATHOLIC BAZAAR AT EAGLE ROCK

St. Dominic to Have Big Event on Opening, June 8

The Catholic bazaar for which the women of the parish have long been working industriously, will open on Tuesday evening, June 6, in St. Dominic's chapel hall, 213 East Myrtle avenue, and will continue the rest of the week. Besides the booths with tempting articles for sale there will be a country store, a refreshment booth, and many interesting features. There is no admission fee and no soliciting for tickets will be done on the floor.

EAGLE ROCK PERSONALS

Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Lang have sold their home at 240 North Kenilworth avenue to C. C. Burnett and family of Hollywood, and are having a new house built in a sightly location on South College View avenue. Until it is completed they will live in one of the Garrett apartments on South Satsuma avenue.

Miss Leora Johnston and mother of North Central avenue have gone to Manhattan Beach to reside for a while on account of Mrs. Johnston's health.

Mrs. Hughes Garr, a sister of Mrs. A. S. Johnson of 816 Stanley avenue has moved into her new home at 109 Highland avenue.

Mrs. F. S. Millette of Glendale has purchased the home of F. A. Poncin at 201 South Douglas avenue and take possession this week. Mrs. Poncin will build on North Peyton avenue, near Hill drive.

Forty of the members of the Methodist Epworth League had a jolly time Tuesday evening, motoring over to Alhambra for a roller skating party.

HOME NURSING and HEALTH HINTS

By M. JESSIE LEITCH

TAKING CARE OF BABY'S BOTTLE

The woman on the street car took a bottle from the Boston bag that stood on the dusty floor and, wiping it off on her sleeve, put it in her baby's mouth.

He was a wan, whimpering little baby, with dark shadows under his eyes and the expression of an old world-weary person upon his little face.

When the woman got home she took the half empty bottle from the baby, because he was asleep, and set it in the kitchen window.

It was a warm day in early summer and the sunlight was streaming in at the uncurtained window.

After the baby had been put to sleep in the center of a big bed in a dark, unaired bedroom and well covered with an old fur coat which she kept for just such emergencies, the woman went back to her kitchen, saw the bottle on the window sill and emptied it into the sink.

Then she stood it in the window again. It was just a habit. The window sill was the only uncluttered space.

Baby Suffers From the Heat

After a while the baby in the dark, unaired room woke up. If he had been a normal, well-cared-for baby he would have slept all through the warm afternoon out on a shady porch perhaps, protected from insects and dust with a piece of cheesecloth and wearing as few garments as possible.

Then he would have been happy and normal.

And when he woke he would have had his bottle, if it was the right time for his bottle. And it would have been a sparkling, clean bottle containing properly prepared, carefully sterilized milk.

This poor little, wan baby, with the dark shadows under his eyes, awoke, wailing feebly, because he was much too warm, and, therefore, most uncomfortable. Grown-up people suffer from the heat in exactly the same way. But they at least can talk about it.

And this mother, who is only one of thousands, hastily rinsed the sun-warmed bottle that had turned sour in the sunlight.

Filling it with carelessly prepared food she thrust it into her baby's mouth without even a glance at the clock.

How Babies Should Be Fed ... How Babies Should Be Fed

He was awake. He cried. Therefore he was hungry. It was quite simple.

Unfortunately the baby also is only one of thousands into whose mouths carelessly prepared, unclean bottles are thrust.

Babies who are artificially fed should have as many bottles as there are feedings for the day. If the baby is on three hourly feedings he must have eight bottles.

As soon as a bottle is emptied it should be rinsed with cold water and filled with cold water. It may be left until all the day's bottles are. empty or until a convenient time. Then the bottles should be scrubbed, not washed, in hot soapsuds. They should be thoroughly rinsed in several waters and put in a kettle of cold water over the fire. When they have boiled for fifteen minutes they are sterilized. Not before. The prepared food should be measured into clean bottles and pasteurized. A rack may be made in which to keep the bottles of prepared feedings on the ice. Feedings for twenty-four hours should be prepared each morning.

C. OF C. MEETING IS SCHEDULED

The monthly meeting of the Eagle Rock chamber of commerce, which was postponed on account of Decoration Day, will be held next Tuesday evening, in the Central school auditorium instead of the city hall quarters, and the public is invited to attend. The business session will be preceded by a radio concert, put on by the radio department of Hamburger's store in Los Angeles, which will begin at 7:15.

The principal topic that will be considered during the evening is fire protection and it is hoped there will be a large attendance of citizens. A committee of five citizens has gathered much information which will be presented and discussed.

Truths in Epigram

The world is a wheel, and it will all come round right. — Disraeli (1804-1881).

To enlarge or illustrate this power and effect of love is to set a candle in the sun.—Burton (1576-1640).

The vow that binds too strictly snaps itself.—Tennyson (1809-1892).

TREATMENT OF GHANDI

According to the American association for promotion of self government in India, Ghandi is being mistreated in prison. He is the native who was sentenced recently to six years' imprisonment for conspiracy against the British government. The story is that he is kept in solitary confinement and permitted to receive only two visitors every three months.

Before getting excited over the tale, there is occasion to consider the probability that it is untrue. An American association for promotion of self-government in India has no legitimate reason for being. There exists but nebulous belief that the title expresses the real purpose. The object is to annoy England. An English association for promotion of self-government in the Philippines would be deemed an insolence. It would seem, however, to be on exact parity with the association mentioned.

In many parts of the world the radical elements show their determination in various ways to create as much turmoil as possible. Some of them, not having the remotest interest in the welfare of Ireland, promoted discord there. Others have chosen India as their field of operations. In every instance in which a schism is created, the bolsheviki everywhere chortle in glee. Their work is being done for them.

It is not to be supposed that many real Americans are identified with the attempt to interfere in India. This is not a meddlesome people, but it has been too lenient with the red radical. It has offered haven to the agitator. He protests against real or imaginary conditions that do not concern him, and about which often he is ignorant, hiding meanwhile under a cloak of Americanism. Sometimes he induces misguided philanthropists to believe his course sincere. Thus he wins a living out of the situation. It is not his ambition to reform anything in India or elsewhere. It is the living he is after.

COST OF CAMPAIGNING

The victory of Pinchot in Pennsylvania is regarded by most observers as a triumph for good government. There is a wide and fixed belief that Pinchot is honest, and that he will carry his principles unwaveringly into public life. Even his opponents will have to share in this opinion, although they may be averse to the principles as a rule of conduct. But it was necessary for the candidate to spend money. His statement is that he used a campaign fund of $93,562.14, most of which he supplied from his own resources. The opposition, which is the old Quay machine, gives its expenditures as $1131.80. This would lend the situation a somewhat curious aspect, provided anybody believed the latter set of figures, which it is safe to say, nobody does.

There is no charge that any of the Pinchot money was used for improper purposes. It went into promotion of various forms of publicity. There was necessity for letting voters know the truth, and they had to be told. There were many speakers, much traveling, extensive printing, each of these operations being essential and each costing a considerable total.

Had these means not been used to inform and to arouse the best sentiment in Pennsylvania, the state would have remained as part of the political assets of a group long in control. The people would have been unaware that there was possibility of winning against the machine, and with inward but hopeless protest, would have accepted the verdict as inevitable.

Improper use of money, as in the case of Senator Newberry, sometimes wins office, but it does not win respect. Moulding opinions through argument is one thing, and buying voters is quite another.

DARK PROSPECTS IN IRELAND

The people of Ireland are engaged in a series of violent crimes that seem likely to eventuate in actual civil war. The world at large, having had sympathy with the troubles of Ireland, and been impressed by its demand for liberty, had hoped its day of peace had come. In theory the day was to arrive with retirement of British forces. It did not arrive. The Irish began to fight among themselves with as much bitterness as a faction of them had fought the authority of Great Britain. Now it seems that circumstances easily may take such a turn as to cause a restoration of British authority.

Such an outcome would be regretted alike by the friends of Ireland and those who had for a time opposed the granting of self-government. It is bound to seem to them that the Irish, after clamoring for an opportunity, had received it only to waste it. Nobody could desire a war between England and Ireland, and at the same time be sane. Out of such conflict could emerge nothing but the subjugation of the elements now stirring up strife, and the continuance and accentuation of the dominance of armed force.

THE QUIET INVASION

Governor Stephens was wise when he addressed the realtors of the nation now in session at San Francisco, in striving to lay before them facts relating to the Japanese question. He was talking to intelligent men of open mind. The truths he succeeded in impressing upon them may be carried to all parts of the country. Real estate men meet people of all classes on terms of business intimacy. Their opinions are held of value. An army of such men armed with the truth as to the silent and insidious Japanese invasion, would be powerful in spreading and upholding the opinion of the Pacific coast.

The governor did not say anything that to residents of this region was not part of a familiar story. Americans living elsewhere either have not heard, or have not believed. They think opposition to the presence of Japanese in large numbers is due to prejudice. They do not realize that it rests on the broad ground that this is American territory, and that to desire that it shall so remain, in sound economy and sound patriotism. Efforts are in progress now to break down the alien land law, adopted as a means of protection. They who control the land of a country ultimately control the country.

Japanese govern Japan for the interests of the Japanese. They forbid such immigration as they deem undesirable. They have no hesitancy in expelling such social units as they think harmful. All that the Pacific coast asks is that the United States adopt a similar attitude on behalf of its own citizenry. This is not a reflection on Oriental civilization. It is the frank admission that that civilization is different, and that the two civilizations cannot flourish side by side. They do not merge at any point of contact. They are inherently hostile each to the other. Japan is welcome to its civilization, but that civilization belongs over there and not here.

LAND BANKS

The plan of chartering land banks is certain to win approval in this section. The standing of the group of financiers directly interested is enough to give the plan high repute. A system with the initial lending power of sixteen millions is a large project that gives full promise of success. The plan has been set forth in the news columns, and doubtless is familiar to many whose welfare it will concern.

In brief, a chain of banks is so linked that a number of institutions, each in itself strong, creates a common reservoir of money, which will be available at low interest and for long terms. Few individuals, or banks either, could lend money for a term of forty years or rely upon an amortization plan, but this the combined banks will be able to do. Such loans are to be for legitimate agricultural operations. Thus the borrower is relieved from the distress of a mortgage falling due at the end of a short period when a poor crop may have rendered payment difficult or even impossible. A farmer may have a short time mortgage bearing a high rate of interest. With the land banks in operation he may replace this with a long time loan at lower interest, payable in installments.

It certainly looks like a good thing for the farmer, while the banks, in the light of experience, have figured that it will be a good thing from their end.

SEVERE BUT JUST

Judge Landis was called to be executive head of organized baseball in order that the great game might be kept at a high moral level, far above suspicion. His rulings have shown him to be fully cognizant of the purpose. Judge Landis makes plain the fact that he will not tolerate crookedness. Baseball is a business as well as a diversion. The same intolerance that marks the present mood of the public towards crookedness in the commercial world, extends into the field of sports.

Some of the rulings of the judge doubtless have been severe. They have hit players when occasion demanded, and now they have hit managers an even harder blow. Two managers have virtually been expelled from organized baseball. They threaten to appeal to the courts. If they have been unjustly accused, it is probable that they may obtain relief. If the accusation under which they rest is substantiated, it is hard to see how any court could do otherwise than uphold the Landis ruling.

SHORT SKIRTS OR LONG?

By. DR. FRANK CRANE

The new style seems to be running to longer skirts. To speak with scientific affectation, the curve of fashion seems to have reached its highest point and is now on its way down.

About all that a mere man can allow himself to hope is that skirts will never grow so long again that they will trail in the dust as they used to.

It is much safer for a male to quote opinions from the opposite sex.

Here are a few.

Lady Alexander thinks that women as a rule are too imitative, and take their dressmaker's word without thinking the matter out themselves. While one woman may not lay down the law as to what another shall wear, still she says that she has no wish to go back to trailing dresses. In these days, when women lead such an active life, they do not want long skirts to impede them. She thinks that the fashions of today are prettier than they were ten years ago, and considers that the ideal length is just above the ankles for indoors and shorter for tailor-mades.

Miss Flora Lyon is a well-known portrait painter. She recently declared herself in favor of the short skirt for reasons of comfort and convenience. But also stated that from the standpoint of art her opinion was different.

"It is by no means easy," she says, "to take much of the tight short skirt, for the perfectly straight line is far more difficult in a picture than one which spreads out. From an artistic point of view I should welcome the long skirt, provided it was fuller as well. The periods of dress depicted by Goya and Gainsborough were, I consider, the most beautiful where art is concerned. I think, however, that many of the fashions of today are very beautiful. One thing I trust we shall never see again is the leg-of-mutton sleeve. If the long skirt comes in and the dress still remains a straight line it will be no improvement on what we have been having."

Miss Dorothy Wilding is an expert photographer. Her opinion is that only one woman in a hundred can wear the long skirt gracefully in the street.

"The average woman's feet and ankles," she said, "are prettier than her face. The short skirt, I hope, will never be altered for street wear, as it is smarter and more convenient, but from the point of view of beauty and grace of line the long skirt stands pre-eminent for evening wear. From a photographic point of view, supposing a woman was taken at full length, I should prefer trailing drapery."

So with these views, which include the opinion of a society woman, a portrait painter, and a photographer, and which express opinions from the standpoint of practicality, of convenience and of artistic beauty, I leave the case, having expressed no opinion of my own, which no woman would think amounts to shucks, anyway.

THE LISTENING POST

It is better to invite than to command.
It is better to deserve than to compel.
It is better to be loved than to be feared.
It is better to reason than to demand.
It is better to persuade than to force.

A parliament of nations is better than armed forces.
A round table is better than a trench.
A school book is better than a policeman's club.
Love is greater than duty.
For the hand of duty is chill and cold and austere.
And the hand of Love is warm and throbbing and soft and comforting.

Kindly speech is better than loud demanding.
A kindly heart is the greatest treasure of the world of men and women and children.
It is splendid to command respect.
It is better to deserve love.
Scholasticism is admirable.
Humanity is lovable.

This is a human world.
Peopled with human beings.
The sorrows, the tears, the griefs, the failures, the weaknesses, the suffering, the lapses, the sins, the struggles are all human things.

The world need to be seen with human eyes.
Helped with human hands.
Comforted with human sympathies.
Forgiven with human understandings.
And judged with human tenderness and mercy.

There is no place in us for hatred of people.
For harshness of judgment.
For intolerance of belief.
For bitterness of condemnation.
Even the criminal in his cell is not to be punished with hatred.
He is to be restrained for humanity's sake.

The world needs a revival of the understanding of the Master.
Of the tenderness and sympathy held in the hearts of such men as Lincoln.
The greatest American.
Not because of the majesty of his intelligence.
But because of the infinite tenderness of his love and sympathy and understanding.

The memorial that was received by the nation on Memorial day, that a grateful nation has erected to the martyred war president, is not for the glorification of Lincoln.
His life and deeds glorified him.
But it is to glorify us if we will.

Lincoln was not deified.
Not enthroned.
Not crowned.
Not worshipped or adored or set high upon a pillar or pedestal.
Lincoln was BELOVED.

So the shrine at Washington should be a fount of understanding.
Of tenderness and sympathy and humanity.
Welling up always in the hearts of all of us.
For this old world needs that human understanding and sympathy and tenderness and helpfulness and forgiveness more than any other thing.

SONGS OF THE POETS

Song—Richard Le Gallienne (1866——)

She's somewhere in the sunlight strong,
Her tears are in the falling rain,
She calls me in the wind's soft song,
And with the flowers she comes again.

Yon bird is but her messenger,
The moon is but her silver car;
Yea! sun and moon are sent by her,
And every wistful waiting star.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

WHY RUSSIA WHIMPERS

[New York Times]

The temporary failure to agree at Genoa has prompted the soviets to pour out a fresh flood of lamentations and reproaches. Russia, they say, is ready to enrich other nations with profitable trade, yet the others will not have it. Won't they, indeed? As Secretary Hughes stated at Washington the other day, "there are no legal obstacles to trade with Russia." If any Americans see a way to make money out of the exchange of goods with Russia, they are at entire liberty to make it. The same holds good of other countries. None of them is at war with Russia or intervening in Russia or blockading Russia. If she has anything to sell, the markets of the world are open to her. Anything that she needs and can pay for is freely hers for the purchase.

The plain fact is that the only obstacles that exist to trade with Russia are those which have been created by the soviet government. Its measures have strangled Russia production, broken down Russian transportation, made worthless Russian currency and destroyed Russian credit. Yet it whimpers that other governments will not enter into commercial relations with it. What has it to trade with? The British government made a special trade agreement with the soviets last year, but its results were almost nil. The skilled manufacturers and exporters of England found that the Russian market, freely opened to them, was not worth seeking to enter.

Lloyd George spoke the blunt truth to the Russian delegates at Genoa when he told them that the rest of Europe could get on without Russia better than Russia could get on without the rest of Europe. Of course, there ought to be no occasion for such odious comparisons. Russia should come back, and be welcomed, into the industrial and commercial world. But there is only one way for her to do it. She must get outside credit. This is tacitly admitted by the Russian delegation, who wind up every complaint with the assertion that they must have an international loan and dare not go back to Moscow without the promise of one. But there can be no loan—that is, credit—without a basis for credit. And that has to be supplied inside of Russia, not outside. Mr. Hughes uttered words of truth and soberness when he declared that "the whole matter is in the control of those who dominate the affairs of Russia." When they really want trade—and not merely political argument—they know well enough how to go and get it.

BETWEEN OURSELVES

By DELLA E. STEWART

It doesn't pay to continually tell our troubles. They may be very interesting and vital to us, but they are scarcely so to any one else. Of course our friends will listen politely. Semi-occasionally they have good advice or some possible solution to offer. More often they'll wish us a mile away as we begin on the third reel. Why shouldn't they? They've enough troubles of their very own, probably.

Troubles are peculiar things. They grow bigger by the telling and by brooding over. You can take a trouble no bigger than a pin point, carefully nurse it all day, tell it to all the neighbors and friends that you can get to listen to you, add to it the leaven of self-pity, and by night it will be a veritable Old Man of the Sea on your tired shoulders. It will have reached out also to those with whom you have shared it—once heard, troubles are hard to forget, whether they're our own or another's. It's a queer thing, also, how they seem to grow, not only in volume but in number by the telling. One thus disposed of for a time, another quickly comes to take its place, each one magnifying itself in turn, until trouble-telling becomes a habit.

An easy, care-free, pleasant life—how we do wish for it! It's one of the idle day dreams with which we like to fill our thought-life; a mirage which vanished as often as we approach it. The troubles are there instead. We have to deal with them one by one or in bunches. But we don't have to make them any larger than they are by the telling. We shall be happier if we don't.

WHAT MAN CAN DO

[Albany Journal]

Somebody asks: "Can a man sew on a button properly?" We don't know what is "properly," but we have observed that when a man does the sewing—for himself, not as tailor—the button stays until the garment is no more.

UNDEVELOPED POWER

[Cincinnati Enquirer]

The religious forces of America, united in purpose, can purge the nation of all its moral, social and economic troubles. The enemies of law, order, government and morals persistently assemble to diffuse their pernicious doctrines. The moral forces of the nation should employ the same method. There can be no question as to which influence ultimately would conquer.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

From time to time are heard protests against capital punishment. The state may call armies into the field for battle. A general may order a charge that means the death of thousands of good and useful men. But the opponents of capital punishment declare that the state must not take the life of a dangerous criminal, whose continued existence might easily mean the death of reputable citizens. They think he should be supported at public expense, this cruel and dangerous enemy to society and to all good.

HENRY JAMES

Just recently a robber stopped an automobilist on the highway near San Francisco. In the machine was the family of the driver. On hearing a demand for his money the citizen handed over three $100 bills, but the robber wanted more. He tried to snatch the rings from the hand of the driver's wife. Among these was her wedding ring. Then the husband reached for a weapon. The robber shot, but the wife cast herself before the weapon, and her faithful heart received the bullet.

Somewhere that robber is loose still. He is not fit to live. He deserves to be killed with less consideration than the dog that has been caught unmuzzled. He is not worth as much as the meanest cur that ever stole a bone.

Possibly he will be caught. What then? A long trial, possibly a series of trials, and in the end a life sentence that means a sentence for as long as the parole board may elect.

And all the time there will be a lot of snivelling over his case, the wailing of the sobsister, and a chorus of he and she softies imploring that the law refrain from giving him his just due.

Since the San Francisco crime another murder somewhat similar has occurred in the suburbs of Los Angeles.

But don't hurt the assassin! He had to be a criminal, or go to work.

R. S. Sparks, long marriage license clerk, contends that women should have the right to propose. He means well, of course, and his kindness is intended to benefit the gentle and admirable sex. Nevertheless there is another side to consider.

For a woman to have her proposal rejected would be a bitter blow to her pride. For a man to have to reject it would wrench him painfully. Rather than treat the lady to a disagreeable experience, or undergo such himself, he might accept. Any other course would appear discourteous. Yet all the time he might be aware of his unworth, that the honor was unmerited, and that, however acute the pain of losing him, the pain of not having lost him was sure to be greater in the end.

Germany offers to mediate between Russia and the allies. The latter are to meet at The Hague to consider particularly their relations with the soviet regime. Russia will not be at the conference, nor is there expectation that Germany will be invited.

In acting in the proposed official capacity Germany would be in the position of an umpire who had been forbidden to enter the grounds where the game was being played.

An interview with Hearst in England breathed no fire and was free from the odor of brimstone.

Otherwise it could not be classed as remarkable.

There seems to be more concern in the United States than in Mexico over the reported revolution in the latter country.

Apparently Mexico has reached the point at which it is impossible for a bandit to constitute hmself a revolution merely by taking too much mescal into his system.

Germany is having a hard time to boycott a tendency to boom Hindenburg. The old butcher, representing the monarchial idea, is swelling into a troublesome importance.

This is one problem of which Germany could have been relieved had it turned Hindenburg over to the allies for trial as a criminal.

Scientists have discovered on this coast the fossil remains of a shark that in its days of frisking in the brine was 135 feet long.

In some happy fashion matters get adjusted to the best good of the race. While the shark flourished there were no one-piece bathers playing in the surf.

Fifteen persons are said to be taking the Pasteur treatment in Los Angeles.

Possibly this will not hurt them. If it eases their fears of hydrophobia, doubtless it will help them.

Many scientists state that the Pasteur treatment is futile, others that in itself it is a far greater danger than a dog bite. England forbids its use.

It is natural to regret that women are slated by a silly fashion to wear higher heels. It seems difficult to do anything but regret it. If the high heel is announced as the style, feminity will toddle and teeter and tumble on it quite unaware of being foolish. Yet there is hope.

It is just possible that rather than undergo a deforming torture, the good sense of the majority will revolt.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

Last week I drove my married sister over to Marysville for a week-end. Mrs. Pilgrim couldn't go. She doesn't like my married sister. So Bet and I had the week-end at our old home all to ourselves. Ten miles out on the road Bet said:

"What's that queer, squeaking sound I hear?"

A squeak is unpleasant and perhaps unpardonable in an automobile, but not necessarily fatal. I told her so. But in five miles more she asked about a knock. At the bridge over the Little Muddy she worried about gas, oil, and water. Then she looked at the tires.

"Oh, dear, dear," she said. "I'm afraid we'll be late. And they'll be waiting dinner for us all this time."

Bettie is a good girl and has two fine children and a nice home and she used to sing in the choir, and I'll trust her not to say any more or meaner things about her neighbor than her neighbor does about her. But she has the worry habit. She fixes her mind on what may happen and tells the other fellow about it. When we finally did follow a puncture by a blowout her monologue became oppressive and I delivered one on my own account.

"Bet," I said, "you're a rotten bad sport. I suppose there is no way to keep you from worrying, but why should you worry me?"

She's a sister of mine, and so I dared talk to her as I never would have dared talk to my wife. But I gave her to understand that I would not stand for any more mourning. She had spoiled the day for me by her infernal, selfish, thoughtless worrying over what might happen, and she might be blessed sure that I'd take care never to expose another day to her devastating methods.

"If you had kept your mouth shut we would have had a pleasant ride," I said. "But you've yowled like a sick cat all the way."

Then we got home in time for dinner after all.

STORAGE BATTERIES

Elements of Cell

While the terms cell and battery are commonly used to mean the same thing, for the sake of clearness, it should be understood that a cell is but one unit of the battery, a battery consisting of a number of cells proportioned to the voltage at which it is desired to use the same. All cells in a battery are alike, since, if some differed in capacity or characteristics from the remainder, the battery could not be charged or discharged uniformly, which is indispensible to its proper maintenances. The elements are the positive and negative plates and correspond to the positive and negative electrodes of the primary battery. Instead of solid plates of lead, however, they consist of a casting of mettalic lead in the form of a grid, the outer edges and the connecting lug of which are of solid lead while the remainder is in the form of a lattice work made in two sections, so that the openings do not correspond. There are as many patterns of these grids as there are makers of batteries. The active material is then constructed upon this lattice work or grid. The active material consists of peroxide of lead, or red lead, on the positive plate and litharge, or spongy metallic lead on the negative plate. These plates are said to be pasted to distinguish them from the old style plates which were formed by a number of charges and discharges. The active material is forced into the openings in the grid under very heavy pressure, so that when completed the plate is hard and smooth as a piece of planed oak plank. The positive plate may be distinguished by its reddish color, while the negative plate is a dark gray. Each positive plate faces a negative plate in the cell and as the capacity of the cell is determined by the active surface of the positive plate, the number of plates in the cell is always odd, with the negative plates in excess. The lead connector of each plate is burned to its neighbor of the same kind, thus forming the positive and negative groups which constitute the elements of the cell. As these elements must not be allowed to come into contact with one another, the plates are placed very close together with wood and perforated hard rubber separators between them. Storage batteries for use in the radio field are designed in practically the same manner as those designed for use in autos in as much as both types must be guarded against rough usage in service. Should the elements come in contact with one another, an internal short circuit would result, which would ruin the cell. Most batteries are made with a hard rubber container instead of wood and it will be noticed that the batteries with hard rubber cases are more satisfactory for radio use than those with the wood cases. This will be noticed in the form of the scratching and mushy noise which is missing. The reason for placing the plates so close together in the cells is to obtain the maximum capacity in a minimum space and to form a compact unit which cannot readily become loosened by shaking.

WOULDN'T IT BE GREAT?

IF:

People didn't change their minds so often?

It wasn't so necessary to insulate the aerial so heavily?

PHUNNY STUFF

Fat people who wish to reduce should take up radio. They get the fever and sit up so late at night and go without their meals and worry about their aerial and ground, and bulbs, etc. that they are bound to lose weight. Fat people, try it out.

Boy is now sick in bed. He just received a pair of phones which he ordered last year from a firm in New York. The surprise of the quick delivery, was too great a surprise.

Here's new use for rolling pins now. The Mother of an enterprising young radio expert states that her son used her rolling pin for a spreader on one end of a two wire aerial and sawed off her broom handle for the spreader at the other end. Of course Mother heartily approved of such action for the sake of such a cause as radio.

HERE WE ARE: Two step set for $40.

While on his daily rounds of the various stores in Glendale, the radio editor fell upon a good thing. The Glendale Book Store, at 113 So. Brand blvd., have just received a shipment of blueprints published by the Popular Science Monthly. They are all compact in envelopes which not only contain the blue prints but also all necessary working instructions. The set is a CR-5 hook-up with a two stage amplifier. You can build the whole thing yourself and these blue prints and working instructions only cost 25 cents complete. Are they worth it fellows? You just drop in and see if they aren't worth it. But please leave one for the radio editor.

BOY SCOUTS TO HAVE RADIO CONCERT

Next week is The Boy Scouts week and they are going to be furnished with a radio concert for the entire week. The equipment is to be furnished by the Newton Electric. Company and installed under their supervision. The set will be installed in the Dry Goods establishment of Mr. H. S. Webb at 103 So. Brand. The set will be installed Monday afternoon and will be in operation all week or from the 5th to the 10th of the month, for the entertainment of the Boy Scouts.

SIDELIGHTS

Great Britain claims only 2,000 radio fans against over a million in the United States. But, according to Godfrey Isaacs, managing director of Marconi's Wireless Telegraph Company, London, the British are about to start showing Americans how the game should be played. The time will come when there will be a receiving set in every British home, he says.

The British Naval Radio station at Bunberg, Donegal, Ireland, has been destroyed by fire. This was the station from which mutineers of the Irish Republican Army recently evicted the British post guards, the mutineers, since that time, holding possession.

First big fight news by radio! This history will record in connection with the Carpentier-Lewis battle in London, on May 11. The cables state that the disappointing bout was broadcasted from London newspaper offices.

A Radio course by mail is the possible addition to the Knights of Columbus Correspondence School at New Haven, Conn.

The box office of the Globe Theatre, New York, is now equipped with a radio-receiving set to take care of reservations from passengers on incoming steamers.

To Relay Invitations to Police Convention

The American Radio Relay league will broadcast an invitation to every chief of police in the United States to attend the Police convention in San Francisco during the week of June 19. The method used will be similar to the one used in delivering the governors' messages to the president recently.

The invitations will be broadcasted some time between 10 o'clock and midnight, June 3, 4 and 5. A designated station in each locality will transmit the message at ten words a minute. Amateurs of the nation are to copy the messages word for word and make a duplicate. One copy to be immediately delivered to the chief of police of each city or his representative and the other signed by him, is to be mailed to the traffic manager, A. R. R. L., 1045 Main street., Hartford, Conn., for a record. The name and call letters of the amateur delivering the messages are to be marked on the signed copy. After the message has been delivered it is the privilege of the receiving station to rebroadcast it at 10 words a minute, repeating each word twice.

The American Radio Relay League has requested the cooperation of every amateur in getting the message delivered and delivery recorded.

HIGH BECOMES AN AMUSEMENT CENTER

Latin, French, Roman Plays Are Given by Students

Things are doing at Glendale High these days and the program of entertainment comes close to being a continuous performance, especially at the close of the week.

On Friday afternoon, for example, two interesting plays were given in the auditorium before large audiences of students. One by the Latin class, directed by Miss Isabel Stevens, represented a Roman wedding. Togas, blouses and sandals featured the costumes, some of which were decorated with the Greek key pattern, and the ensemble was quite classic.

Students taking part were Maynard Toll, Francis Colburn, Doris Potter, Grace Baldwin, Dorothy Cotton, Robert Eastman, Marion Morrison, William Eggers, Clifford Walcott, Douglas Gregg.

The French play directed by the French teacher, Miss Dorothy Gilson, made a hit with its attractive but simple staging, and the pretty dance. Those taking part were Stillman Chase, Josephine Booth, Isabel Tousey, Emma Laura Cooper, Ruth Verier, Marcella Webb, Muriel Hively, Fred Peck, Fred Terzo, Dorothy Zeitlin, Amy Bainbridge, Dick Fisher, Laurence Knapp, Maurice Widdows. The play was entitled, "Le Danseuse de Jean," or John's Dancing Partner. Another feature of the play was the singing of the "Marseilles" by the cast.

In 1920, 225,000 persons went up in airplanes as passengers. Six million miles were traversed by 1,000 'planes. Eighty-seven civilian companies operated without one recorded fatal accident. Eight thousand miles were covered every day by the aerial mail service.

A Year Ago Today

(From the Glendale Daily Press for June 3, 1921)

The Glendale Lodge No. 1289 B. P. O. E. players gave their first performance of "Mrs. Temple's Telegram" last night before a packed house. After the performance the audience said that the play was the finest ever produced in Glendale.

A large audience assembled last night at the city hall for the hearning of protests by the trustee against the proposed zoning ordinance. As no protests had been filed and there were no verbal criticisms the hearing was postponed.

George Grist was found not guilty yesterday by a jury in Judge Lowe's court on a charge of speeding. It was alleged that Grist violated the speed limits with a truck in which he was hauling National Guardsmen to Burbank on the night of May 19.

Members of the Glendale Union high school student body are announcing their candidacy for posts in the cabinet. Petitions for candidates have been circulated and the school has taken on the tension of a political arena.

TROPICO PRESBYTERIAN
Corner Central and Laurel
James F. Winnard, D. D., Minister

At the morning service Dr. Winnard will speak on the subject, "Forms of Expression of the Religious Spirit." The evening subject is a companion to that of the morning and is "Does Religion Pay?" All are welcome.

VAUDEVILLE HIT AT T. D. & L. TONIGHT

"The Price of a Kiss," the especial vaudville act staged by Ralph Allan at the T. D. and L. theatre, and presented by Rex Taylor and Mel Brown, well-known playwrights and producers of higher class vaudeville, literally took the audience at the popular theatre by storm last night.

"The Price of a Kiss" is given in conjunction with Gertrude Atherton's photoplay, "Don't Neglect Your Wife" and will be presented twice—at 7 and 9 p. m.

Foremost among the novels which have brought Booth Tarkington lasting fame, is undoubtedly "The Man From Home," which has now been translated to the screen and which will be showing at the T. D. and L. theatre Sunday. With the action laid mostly in Italy, and several scenes in England and America, the story is a thrilling one and in its transference to the screen it has lost none of its intensity.

NEXT STORY — THE SPIDER FINDS FRISK'S FEATHER.

James K. Hackett, who played Shakespeare very successfully during the Paris season by invitation of the French government, told an entertaining story recently.

"After a performance of 'Macbeth,'" he said, "a card was brought in to me, and I consented to see its owner, though he was a stranger. Well, the man came in pompously enough. He was elderly and he was afflicted with a bad stutter. He w-wanted to k-know, however, if I hadn't a vacancy for him; as it was his heart's desire to be a great tragedian. Well, I said, of course, that I could do nothing for him. So he took up his hat, heaved a deep sigh, and murmured: 'Then I'll have to k-keep on t-teaching elocution for the p-present.'"

A violinist entered a music seller's shop in an out-of-the-way London street.

"I want an E string, please," he remarked to the man behind the counter.

Producing a box, the latter said, "Would you mind pickin' one out for yourself, sir? I hardly know the e's from the shes!"

Listening in on Eve...

...TRACTING GIRLS

"They look ...ferent," complained the ... young man, gazing around ... of the cafe. "Gi... I've seen girls ev... as knee high and ... to most anything ... do to themselves in the ...periment and change— ...like to know what's hap... them now!"

"...tell you," offered his ... with the extra keen eyes, ... himself to the last of the ...ket; they've bobbed their hair ...didn't you know that? Some girl who started it has an awful weight upon her soul, let me inform you! The little cute ones do it and it makes them look about six years old and the big, fat ones of mature years do it and blot the landscape for the rest of humanity. If there is any one thing, besides trying to be kittenish, that a large mature lady should cross firmly off her list it is bobbing her hair—but you can't convince a woman!"

"Ah, I see!" sighed the studious young man, gazing about with renewed and relieved interest. "I feared we were growing a new species or something, but no doubt the fad will wear off."

"It can't wear off," insisted the keen-eyed young man with malicious satisfaction. 'When a girl chops off her hair it stays chopped off for quite some time."

"You interest me intensely!" declared the studious young man, discovering too late that the omelet had entirely vanished. But why should they cut their hair in the first place? I thought the object of every girl was to grow hair longer than every other girl's, so she could boast about it! And how do you happen to be so well informed?"

"Huh!" the keen-eyed young man responded bitterly. "Haven't I a sister with a bobbed head? And a near-fiancee? Anything you may ask me I know! One feature of this mania is that it strikes hardest among the girls with the heaviest, loveliest hair. Give a girl a fine head of hair these days and she just nearly dies until she bobs it.

"When Petrolea announced that she thought she should have her hair bobbed it was exactly as though she had presented the family with a neat package of TNT tied up with blue ribbon. Neither the roarings of dad, the hysterics of mother and my well expressed, biting scorn moved her in the least. She sat surrounded by a protecting and impenetrable aura of perfect satisfaction. She was right, because she knew she was right, and she bobbed it.

"She came home from the barber's slaughter looking a trifle pale and she hasn't got her natural color back yet, because now that the deed is done Petrolea realizes she isn't the type. Petrolea was destined to wear long, slinky Burne-Jones clothes and to drape herself in corners and make curves out of her long arms and white hands—and if your hair is bobbed you simply have to be perky and cute, and she's nearly passing out trying to live up to schedule."

"I always did like Petrolea's hair," sighed the studious young man sadly. "I am startled and amazed at her act! I am sure she can't look as bad as you say! She simply cannot surpass the girls at the next table! I believe that bobbed hair was never intended to wear with a hat, was it? Those hats look so odd with a wreath of curled hair sticking out from around the edges that way! Something should be done about this messing up of the feminine landscape! Can it be they think they look attractive?"

"Girls are able to think they look anything they want to look," explained the keen-eyed young man. "Usually a little bit of a girl wants to look tall and distinguished and that is what ails their expression mostly when you wonder why they have such a queer appearance. They are simply being tall and distinguished and it doesn't fit any better than a size 48 on a perfect 36. If they are oversize their very souls yearn to be cunning and appealing and they are thinking they are at those times when you feel that steps should be taken to restrain them.

"You can't find a woman under thirty-five today who doesn't firmly fancy she would knock them flat if she decided to bob her hair. They are wearing out all the hand mirrors on earth studying their profiles and pinning up their locks to see how they would look if they were actually bobbed. And after they bob it they persist in shaking their heads vigorously at you, sending their hair flying through the air and over their eyes in the cute way Bonnie Binner does in the movies. I tell you it is awful and no pen can depict the way we men are suffering! It's fierce!"

"Well, I'm coming up this evening to see about Petrolea," said the studious young man, anxiously. "She simply can't look as bad as these girls, but if she does it's better for me to know it right now when the beaches are warming up and poison's cheap! The idea of Petrolea—"

"Oh, Petrolea's just a fool girl," said Petrolea's brother. "But what I can't understand is why Farina had to do it! I'm going up there again tonight to see if it does look as bad as it did last evening!"

"I've asked you here to dinner for the last time, my boy," said father-in-law. "for I'm sorry to tell you I've lost all my money."

"Great Scott! Then I married for love, after all!" replied son-in-law.

CITY PRINTING

ORDINANCE NO. 578

AN ORDINANCE OF THE CITY OF GLENDALE DECLARING THE INTENTION OF THE CITY COUNCIL OF SAID CITY TO CALL AN ELECTION IN THAT PART OF THE CITY OF GLENDALE CONTAINED WITHIN THE BOUNDARIES OF A PROPOSED "MUNICIPAL IMPROVEMENT DISTRICT," TO BE KNOWN AS "MUNICIPAL IMPROVEMENT DISTRICT NO. 6 OF THE CITY OF GLENDALE," FOR THE PURPOSE OF SUBMITTING TO THE QUALIFIED ELECTORS OF SAID DISTRICT THE PROPOSITION OF AUTHORIZING THE ISSUANCE AND SALE OF BONDS OF SUCH DISTRICT.

WHEREAS, a petition was filed in the office of the City Clerk of the City of Glendale on the 10th day of May, 1922, requesting that proceedings be taken in pursuance of an Act of the Legislature of the State of California, entitled "An Act to Provide for the Formation of Districts Within Municipalities, for the Purpose of Acquisition or Construction of Public Improvements, Works, and Public Utilities, for the Issuance, Sale and Payment of Bonds of Such District to Meet the Cost of Such Improvements, and for the Acquisition or Construction of Such Improvements," approved April 20, 1915, and amendments thereto, for the purpose of acquiring and constructing works, or acquiring or constructing, for distributing and supplying gas to the inhabitants of such district, including the acquisition of lands, easements, structures, mains, pipes, pipe lines, apparatus, and all other property and works necessary for the purpose of supplying the people of said district with gas for domestic and other useful purposes; and

WHEREAS, it appears and is hereby found that said petition is signed by not less than ten (10) per cent. of the qualified electors residing in the territory which is proposed to be formed into the said Municipal Improvement District; and

WHEREAS, the public interest and necessity require that proceedings be taken as requested in said petition.

NOW, THEREFORE, be it ordained by the Council of the City of Glendale:

SECTION 1. That it is the intention of the City of Glendale to call an election in that certain proposed Municipal Improvement District having boundaries as hereinafter described, or as may be changed in the manner provided in the aforesaid Act, for the purpose of submitting to the qualified electors of said district the proposition of authorizing the issuance and sale of bonds of such district in the manner prescribed in said Act, approved April 15, 1920, and amendments thereof, for the purpose of acquiring and constructing, or acquiring or constructing, works for the distributing and supplying of gas to the inhabitants of such district, including the acquisition of lands, easements, rights of way, structures, mains, pipes, pipe lines, apparatus, and all other property and works necessary for the purpose of supplying the people of said district with gas for domestic and other useful purposes.

A RESOLUTION OF THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF GLENDALE DECLARING ITS INTENTION TO IMPROVE A PORTION OF DORAN STREET AND OF CERTAIN STREETS AND ALLEYS INTERSECTING THEREWITH IN THE CITY OF GLENDALE AND DESCRIBNG THE DISTRICT TO BE ASSESSED TO PAY THE COSTS AND EXPENSES OF SAID IMPROVEMENT AND PROVIDING BONDS FOR THE PAYMENT OF SAME.

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF GLENDALE:

SECTION 1. That the public interest and convenience require and it the intention of the Council of the City of Glendale to order the following work and improvement to be done, to-wit:

First: That Doran Street from the most westerly line of Brand Boulevard to the easterly line of Central Avenue be graded and paved to the official line and grade with an oil macadam pavement three (3) inches in thickness in accordance with Plan No. 536, Profile No. 288, and Specifications for said work adopted by the Council of the City of Glendale and known as Specifications No. 36.

SECTION 2. That said contemplated work or improvement in the opinion of said Council is of more than local or ordinary public benefit and will affect and benefit the lands and district hereinafter described, and said Council hereby declares that the district in said City of Glendale benefited by said work or improvement and to be assessed to pay the costs and expenses thereof is all that portion of said City included within the following exterior boundary lines, to-wit:

Beginning at the southwesterly corner of Lot 8, Tract No. 3325, as per map recorded in Book 34, page 33 of Maps, Records of Los Angeles County, California; thence easterly along the southerly line of said Lot 8 to the southeasterly corner thereof; thence northerly along the westerly lines of Lots 9 to 14 inclusive of said Tract No. 3325 to the northwesterly corner of said Lot 14; thence easterly along the northerly line of said Lot 14 and along the easterly prolongation of the northerly line of said Lot 14 to a line drawn parallel to and one hundred seventy (170) feet easterly of the easterly line of Orange Street; thence southerly along said line so drawn to the northerly line of Lot 15, Block 15, Glendale Boulevard Tract, as per map recorded in Book 5, page 167 of Maps, Records of said County; thence easterly along the northerly line of said Lot 15 to the most westerly line of Brand Boulevard; thence southerly along the most westerly line of Brand Boulevard to the northeasterly corner of Lot 1 Ezra Parker's Tract, as per map recorded in Book 12, page 81 of Maps, Records of said County; thence westerly along the northerly line of said Lot 1 to the northwesterly corner of said Lot 1; thence southerly along the westerly lines of Lots 1 and 2 of said Ezra Parker's Tract to the northerly line of Lot 1, Tract No. 614, as per map recorded in Book 15, page 138 of Maps, Records of said County; thence westerly along the southerly lines of Lots 5 and 8 of said Tract No. 614 to the southwesterly corner of said Lot 8; thence northerly along the westerly lines of Lots 7 and 8 of said Tract No. 614 to the northwesterly corner of said Lot 7; thence westerly along the northerly line of Lot 14 of said Tract No. 614 to the easterly line of Central Avenue; thence northerly along the easterly line of Central Avenue to the point of beginning, excepting therefrom any portion of any public street or alley which may be included within the above described district. Reference is hereby made to Map No. 536-A, approved by the Council, in which the assessment district referred to is shown within red colored border lines.

SECTION 3. That pursuant to the Act of the Legislature of the State of California, approved February 27, 1893, and the Acts amendatory thereto, serial bonds bearing interest at the rate of 7 per cent per annum shall be issued to represent assessments of Twenty-five ($25.00) Dollars or over for the costs of said work or improvement; said serial bonds shall extend over a period ending nine (9) years from and after the second day of January next succeeding the date of said bonds, and an even annual proportion of the principal sum thereof shall be payable by coupon on the second day of January, every year after their date until the whole is paid; and the interest shall be payable semi-annually by coupon on the second days of January and July, respectively, of each year, at the rate of 7 per cent per annum on all sums unpaid until the whole of said principal and interest is paid.

SECTION 4. The City Engineer is directed to make a diagram of the property affected or benefited by the proposed work or improvement as described herein, and to be assessed to pay the cost and expense thereof. Such diagram shall show each separate lot, piece or parcel of land, the area in square feet in each of said lots, pieces or parcels of land, and the relative location of the same to the work proposed to be done, all within the limits of the assessment district.

SECTION 5. All Maps, Cross-sections, Plans and Profiles referred to herein are on file in the office of the City Engineer of said City. All Specifications referred to herein are on file in the office of the City Clerk of said City. Said Map, Plans, Cross-sections, Profiles and Specifications are hereby referred to for a more particular description of said work and made a part hereof.

SECTION 6. The Glendale Daily Press, a daily newspaper of general circulation, published and circulated in said City of Glendale, is hereby designated as the newspaper in which this Resolution of Intention shall be published in the manner and by the persons required by law, and in which the Street Superintendent shall publish notice of the passage of this Resolution of Intention.

SECTION 7. The Street Superintendent of said City of Glendale is hereby directed to post notices of the passage of this Resolution of Intention in the manner and in the form required by law, and to cause a similar notice to be published by two insertions in said newspaper in the manner required by law.

SECTION 8. The City Clerk of said City of Glendale is hereby directed to post this Resolution of Intention conspicuously for two days on or near the chamber door of the said Council and to cause the same to be published by two insertions in the manner required by law, and also to mail, postage prepaid, to each property owner whose property is to be assessed to pay the cost and expenses of said improvement, a postal card containing notice of the passage of this Resolution of Intention, and calling attention to the fact that said property is to be assessed for said improvement, all as required by law.

Adopted and approved this 25th day of May, 1922.

RESOLUTION OF INTENTION NO. 1514

A RESOLUTION OF THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF GLENDALE DECLARING ITS INTENTION TO IMPROVE A PORTION OF CYPRESS STREET AND OF CERTAIN STREETS AND ALLEYS INTERSECTING THEREWITH IN THE CITY OF GLENDALE, AND DESCRIBING THE DISTRICT TO BE ASSESSED TO PAY THE COSTS AND EXPENSES OF SAID IMPROVEMENT OTHER THAN THAT PORTION OF THE COSTS AND EXPENSES TO BE PAID OUT OF THE CITY TREASURY AND PROVIDING BONDS FOR THE PAYMENT OF SAME, AND PROVIDING THAT A PORTION OF THE COSTS AND EXPENSES OF SAID IMPROVEMENT SHALL BE PAID OUT OF THE TREASURY OF SAID CITY OF GLENDALE.

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF GLENDALE:

SECTION 1. That the public interest and convenience require and it is the intention of the Council of the City of Glendale to order the following work and improvement to be done, to-wit:

First: That a six (6) inch Class "B" cast iron water pipe be laid in Cypress Street and Glendale Avenue and across intersecting streets and alleys along a line parallel to and fifteen (15) feet northerly of the southerly line of Cypress Street. Said pipe to extend easterly from a point fifty (50) feet easterly of the westerly curb of Glendale Avenue to the easterly line of the Heide-Boynton Tract as per map recorded in Book 12, page 80 of Maps, Records of Los Angeles County, California, together with all connections, valves, fire hydrants and appurtenances, all as shown on Plan No. 535, said pipe and appurtenances to be used for fire protection and the distribution of the municipal water supply of the City of Glendale.

Said pipe shall be laid in accordance with said Plan and said pipe connections, valves and other appurtenances shall be constructed in accordance with the plans therefor, designated as Plan No. 535, Plan No. 439 and Plan No. 448, and in accordance with Specifications therefor, adopted by the Council of the City of Glendale and designated as Specifications No. 42 for furnishing and laying cast iron water pipe in the City of Glendale; and Second: That galvanized iron service pipes of the sizes and at the locations shown on Plan No. 535 be laid in said Cypress Street from said pipe mentioned in sub-section first of Section 1 hereof to a line drawn parallel and approximately twelve (12) inches northerly of the northerly curb line of Cypress Street, and to a line drawn parallel to and approximately twelve (12) inches southerly of the southerly curb line of Cypress Street. Said service pipes shall be laid in further accordance with said Specifications No. 42.

SECTION 2. That said contemplated work or improvement in the opinion of said Council is of more than local or ordinary public benefit and will affect and benefit the lands and district hereinafter described, and said Council hereby declares that the district in said City of Glendale benefited by said work or improvement and to be assessed to pay the costs and expenses thereof other than that portion of the costs and expenses thereof that is to be paid out of the City Treasury, as hereinafter specified, is all that portion of said City included within the following exterior boundary lines, to-wit:

Beginning at the northwesterly corner of Lot 13, Tract No. 282, as per map recorded in Book 14, pages 118 and 119 of Maps, Records of Los Angeles County, California; thence easterly along the northerly line of said Lot 13 to the northeasterly corner thereof; thence southerly along the easterly line of said Lot 13 to the northwesterly corner of Lot 7 of said Tract No. 282; thence easterly along the northerly line of said Lot 7 to the northeasterly corner thereof; thence easterly in a direct line across Mariposa Street to the northwesterly corner of Lot 6 of said Tract No. 282; thence easterly along the northerly line of said Lot 6 to the northeasterly corner thereof; thence southerly along the easterly line of said Lot 6 to the northwesterly corner of Lot 14, Block B of the Heide-Boynton Tract as per map recorded in Book 12, page 80 of Maps, Records of aforementioned County; thence easterly along the northerly line of said Lot 14 to the northeasterly corner thereof; thence southeasterly in a direct line across Boynton Street to the northwesterly corner of Lot 16, Block A of said Heide-Boynton Tract; thence easterly along the northerly line of said Lot 16 to the northeasterly corner thereof; thence southerly along the easterly line of said Heide-Boynton Tract to the southeasterly corner thereof; thence westerly and northwesterly along the southerly and southwesterly lines of said Heide-Boynton Tract to the southeasterly corner of Lot 9, Tract No. 73, as per map recorded in Book 13, page 130 of Maps, Records of aforementioned County; thence northwesterly along the southwesterly line of said Tract No. 73 to the southwesterly corner thereof; thence northwesterly in a direct line across Glendale Avenue to the southeasterly corner of Lot 13, Tract No. 314, as per map recorded in Book 14, pages 122 and 123 of Maps, Records of aforementioned County; thence northerly along the easterly line of Lot 13 to the northeasterly corner thereof; thence northeasterly in a direct line across Glendale Avenue to the point of beginning.

Excepting therefrom any portion of any public street or alley which may be included within the above described district. Reference is hereby made to Plan No. 535-A, adopted by the City Council, on which the assessment district referred to is shown within red colored border lines.

SECTION 3. That pursuant to the Act of the Legislature of the State of California approved February 27, 1893, and the Acts amendatory thereto, Serial bonds bearing interest at the rate of 7 per cent per annum shall be issued to represent assessments of Twenty-five ($25.00) Dollars or over for the costs of said work or improvement, other than that portion of the costs and expenses of said improvement to be paid out of the City Treasury; said serial bonds shall extend over a period ending nine (9) years from and after the second day of January next succeeding the date of said bonds, and an even annual proportion of the principal sum thereof shall be payable by coupon on the second day of January every year after their date until the whole is paid; and the interest shall be payable semi-annually by coupon on the second days of January and July, respectively, of each year at the rate of 7 per cent per annum on all sums unpaid, until the whole of said principal and interest is paid.

SECTION 4. The City Engineer is directed to make a diagram of the property affected or benefited by the proposed work or improvement as described herein and to be assessed to pay the cost and expenses thereof, other than that portion of the costs and expenses of said improvement to be paid out of the City Treasury. Such diagram shall show each separate lot, piece or parcel of land, the area in square feet of each of such lots, pieces or parcels of land, and the relative location of the same to the work proposed to be done, all within the limits of the assessment district.

SECTION 5. The Council of the City of Glendale hereby orders that five hundred and twenty-seven ($527.00) Dollars of the cost and expenses of the work described in sub-section one of Section 1 hereof, shall be paid out of the City Treasury from the "1921 Election Water Bond Fund," which fund is hereby designated as the fund from which such cost and expenses are to be paid.

SECTION 6. All Plans referred to herein are on file in the office of the City Engineer of said City. All Specifications referred to herein are on file in the office of the City Clerk of said City. Said Plans and Specifications are hereby referred to for a more particular description of said work and made a part hereof.

SECTION 7. The Glendale Daily Press, a daily newspaper of general circulation, published and circulated in said City of Glendale, is hereby designated as the newspaper in which this Resolution of Intention shall be published in the manner and by the persons required by law, and in which the Street Superintendent shall publish notice of the passage of this Resolution of Intention.

SECTION 8. The Street Superintendent of said City of Glendale is hereby directed to post notices of the passage of this Resolution of Intention in the manner and in the form required by law, and to cause a similar notice to be published by two insertions in said newspaper in the manner required by law.

SECTION 9. The City Clerk of said City of Glendale is hereby directed to post this Resolution of Intention conspicuously for two days on or near the chamber door of the said Council and to cause the same to be published by two insertions in the manner required by law, in said newspaper, and also to mail, postage prepaid, to each property owner whose property is to be assessed to pay the cost and expenses of said improvement, a postal card containing notice of the passage of this Resolution of Intention, and calling attention to the fact that said property is to be assessed for said improvement, all as required by law.

Adopted and approved this 25th day of May, 1922.

RESOLUTION OF INTENTION NO. 1513

A RESOLUTION OF THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF GLENDALE DECLARING ITS INTENTION TO IMPROVE A PORTION OF ADAMS STREET AND OF CERTAIN STREETS AND ALLEYS INTERSECTING THEREWITH IN THE CITY OF GLENDALE, AND DESCRIBING THE DISTRICT TO BE ASSESSED TO PAY THE COSTS AND EXPENSES OF SAID IMPROVEMENT OTHER THAN THAT PORTION OF THE COSTS AND EXPENSES TO BE PAID OUT OF THE CITY TREASURY AND PROVIDING BONDS FOR THE PAYMENT OF SAME AND PROVIDING THAT A PORTION OF THE COSTS AND EXPENSES OF SAID IMPROVEMENT SHALL BE PAID OUT OF THE TREASURY OF SAID CITY OF GLENDALE.

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF GLENDALE:

SECTION 1. That the public interest and convenience require and it is the intention of the Council of the City of Glendale to order the following work and improvement to be done, to-wit:

First: That Adams street from the northerly curb line of Wilson Avenue to the southerly curb line of Lexington Drive, including all intersections of streets or alleys, be resurfaced in accordance with Plan No. 534, Profile No. 134, and Specifications for said work adopted by the Council of the City of Glendale and known as Specifications No. 43.

Second: That an eight (8) inch Class "B" cast iron water pipe be laid in Adams Street and across intersecting streets and alleys along a line seventeen (17) feet easterly of and parallel to the westerly line of Adams Street, said pipe to extend from the southerly line of Wilson Avenue to a line seventeen (17) feet northerly of and parallel to the southerly line of Lexington Drive, together with all connections, valves, fire hydrants and appurtenances, all as shown on Plan No. 534-W, and Profile No. 134, and said pipe and appurtenances to be used for fire protection and the distribution of the municipal water supply of the City of Glendale. Said pipe shall be laid in accordance with said Plan and Profile and between the points on the lines and grades and at the elevations designated thereon, and said pipe, connections, valves, fire hydrants and appurtenances shall be constructed in accordance with the Plans and Profile therefor, designated as Plans No. 448, 439, 534-W, Profile No. 134, and in accordance with Specifications therefor, adopted by the Council of the City of Glendale and designated as Specifications No. 42, for furnishing and laying cast iron water pipe in the City of Glendale; and Third: That a four (4) inch Class "B" cast iron water pipe be laid in Adams Street along a line seventeen (17) feet northerly of and parallel to the southerly line of California Avenue, said pipe to extend from the westerly line of Adams Street to the easterly line of Adams Street and along a line fifteen (15) feet northerly of and parallel to the westerly prolongation of the southerly line of Stanley Avenue, said pipe to extend from said pipe line described in paragraph second hereof to the easterly line of Adams Street, together with all connections, valves and appurtenances, all as shown on Plan No. 534-W, and Profile No. 134, said pipes and appurtenances to be used for fire protection and the distribution of the municipal water supply of the City of Glendale. Said pipe shall be laid in accordance with said Plan and Profile and between the points on the lines and grades and at the elevation designated thereon, and said pipe, connections, valves and appurtenances shall be constructed in accordance with the Plans and Profile therefor, designated as Plans No. 534-W, No. 439, and Profile No. 134, and in accordance with Specifications therefor, adopted by the Council of the City of Glendale and designated as Specifications No. 42 for furnishing and laying cast iron water pipe in the City of Glendale.

Fourth: That galvanized iron service pipes of the sizes and at the locations shown on Plan No. 534-W be laid in said Adams Street from said pipe line mentioned in paragraph second hereof to a line drawn parallel to and approximately twelve (12) inches easterly of the easterly curb line of Adams Street and to a line drawn parallel to and approximately twelve (12) inches westerly of the westerly curb line of Adams Street. Said service pipes shall be laid in further accordance with said Specifications No. 42.

SECTION 2. That said contemplated work or improvement in the opinion of said Council is of more than local or ordinary public benefit and will affect and benefit the lands and district hereinafter described, and said Council hereby declares that the district in said City of Glendale benefited by said work or improvement and to be assessed to pay the costs and expenses thereof, other than that portion of the costs and expenses thereof that is to be paid out of the City Treasury as hereinafter specified, is all that portion of said City included within the following exterior boundary lines, to-wit:

Beginning at a point in the northerly line of Lexington Drive where said line is intersected by the northerly prolongation of the westerly lines of Lots 46 to 49 inclusive, of Jones Home Tract, as per map recorded in Book 8, page 173 of Maps, Records of Los Angeles County, California; thence easterly along the northerly line of Lexington Drive to the northerly prolongation of the easterly line of Lot 2, Block 31, Town of Glendale, as per map recorded in Book 21, pages 89 and 90, Miscellaneous Records of said County; thence southerly along the northerly prolongation of the easterly line of said Lot 2 and along the easterly lines of Lots 2 and 3, Block 31 of said Town of Glendale, to the northerly line of California Avenue; thence southerly in a direct line across California Avenue to the northeasterly corner of Lot 6, Pitcher Tract, as per map recorded in Book 14, page 132 of Maps, Records of said County; thence southerly along the easterly lines of Lots 6 and 7 of said Pitcher Tract to the northerly line of Stanley Avenue; thence southerly in a direct line across Stanley Avenue to the northeasterly corner of Lot 12, Wannemacher Tract, as per map recorded in Book 12, page 114 of Maps, Records of said County; thence southerly along the easterly lines of Lots 12 and 1 of said Wannemacher Tract and along the southerly prolongation of the easterly lines of said Lots 12 and 1 to the southerly line of Wilson Avenue; thence westerly along the southerly line of Wilson Avenue to an intersection with the southerly prolongation of the easterly line of that alley in Block 1 or said Town of Glendale; thence northerly along the southerly prolongation of the easterly line of said alley and along the easterly line of said alley to the southerly line of California Avenue; thence northerly in a direct line to the southwesterly corner of Lot 2, Tract No. 429, as per map recorded in Book 16, page 177 of Maps, Records of said County; thence northerly along the westerly line of said Lot 2 to the northwesterly corner thereof; thence easterly along the southerly line of Lot 3 of said Tract No. 429 to the southeasterly corner of said Lot 3; thence northerly along the easterly lines of Lots 3, 4 and 5 of said Tract No. 429 to the northeasterly corner of said Lot 5; thence northerly in a direct line to the southwesterly corner of Lot 49 of aforesaid Jones Home Tract; thence northerly along the westerly lines of Lots 49 to 46 inclusive of said Jones Home Tract and along the northerly prolongation of the westerly lines of said Lots 49 to 46 inclusive to the point of beginning, excepting therefrom any portion of any public street or alley which may be included in the above described district. Reference is hereby made to Plan No. 534-A, approved by the City Council, in which the assessment district referred to is shown within red colored border lines.

SECTION 3. That pursuant to the Act of the Legislature of the State of California, approved February 27, 1893, and the Acts amendatory thereto, Serial bonds bearing interest at the rate of 7 per cent per annum shall be issued to represent assessments of Twenty-five ($25.00) Dollars or over for the costs of said work or improvement, other than that portion of the costs and expenses to be paid out of the City Treasury, as hereinafter specified; said Serial bonds shall extend over a period ending nine (9) years from and after the second day of January next succeeding the date of said bonds, and an even annual proportion of the principal sum thereof shall be payable by coupon on the second day of January, every year after their date, until the whole is paid; and the interest shall be payable semi-annually by coupon on the second days of January and July, respectively, of each year, at the rate of 7 per cent per annum on all sums unpaid, until the whole of said principal and interest is paid.

SECTION 4. The City Engineer is directed to make a diagram of the property affected or benefited by the proposed work or improvement as described herein, and to be assessed to pay the cost and expense thereof. Such diagram shall show each separate lot, piece or parcel of land, the area in square feet of each of such lots, pieces or parcels of land and the relative location of the same to the work proposed to be done, all within the limits of the assessment district, and such other matters as are required by law.

SECTION 5. The Council of the City of Glendale hereby orders that one thousand forty-six and ninety-two hundredths ($1046.92) dollars of the cost and expense of the work described in paragraph second of Section 1 hereof shall be paid out of the City Treasury from the Public Service Budget Fund, which fund is hereby designated as the fund from which such cost and expenses are to be paid.

SECTION 6. All Maps, Cross-sections, Plans and Profiles referred to herein are on file in the office of the City Engineer of said City. All Specifications referred to herein are on file in the office of the City Clerk of said City. Said Maps, Plans, Cross-sections, Profiles and Specifications are hereby referred to for a more particular description of said work and made a part hereof.

SECTION 7. The Glendale Daily Press, a daily newspaper of general circulation, published and circulated in said City of Glendale, is hereby designated as the newspaper in which this Resolution of Intention shall be published in the manner and by the persons required by law, and in which the Street Superintendent shall publish notice of the passage of this Resolution of Intention.

SECTION 8. The Street Superintendent of said City of Glendale is hereby directed to post notices of the passage of this Resolution of Intention in the manner and in the form required by law, and to cause a similar notice to be published by two insertions in said newspaper in the manner required by law.

THE VISITING AUNT AND THE DOUGH

When our aunt visits us Pop says: "I hope
You won't forget she's rich!" And I said "Nope!"
And then he said: "You want to recollect
She may leave something when she dies, I 'spect.
She's not so much to look at but you know
Your looks don't matter if you've got the dough!"
So when she came I called her "Aunty, Dear,"
But my! what clothes she had! She looked s. queer
I almost laughed right in her face. Pop took
Her things and said: "Why, Aunt, how young yo. look!"

Pop took her coat and Mother took her hat
And all they said was "Aunty this and that,"
Then afterwards she held me on her knee
And said: "What a dear boy he's grown to be!"

Ma said: "The dear boy couldn't hardly wait
To see you when he heard his dear Aunt Kate
Was coming for a visit to us!" My!
I never heard Ma tell so big a lie!
Then Aunty said: "Why do you love me so?"
And I said: "Why, because you've got the dough!"

Oh my! She got up in an awful huff
And said she guessed she'd been there long enough.
Ma tried to argue but she said: "No, Ruth!
You know all fools and children tell the truth!"
Pop was half crazy when Ma told him what I said and he said: "There! You might have got
Her money when she died and now you went
And did it and you'll never get a cent!
It's all right to love people for their dough
But goodness sakes alive don't tell 'em so!"

Hasty Breakfasts

By H. ADDINGTON BRUCE

Author of "The Riddle of Personality," "Self-Development," Etc.

(Copyright, 1922, by The Associated Newspapers.)

Much has been written regarding the evils of the "quick lunch" habit. Far too seldom, however, is anything said about the deplorable consequences, to health as well as to working ability, that may follow the eating of a too scant and too hurried breakfast.

Many people, day after day, rise too late to give themselves sufficient breakfast time. They know they have to be at their working places at a certain hour. Also they have an abnormal reluctance to leave their beds.

As a result they dress in a rush and they breakfast in a rush. Gulping down a little fruit, a piece of toast, a sup of coffee, they rush for street car or train.

Nature reacts in various ways against this unmannerly treatment of their stomachs.

She may send the hasty eaters to work with a splitting headache. She may inflict upon them the pangs of indigestion. Or, if they happen to have uncommonly vigorous organs of digestion, she may punish them in another and more subtle way.

She may deal with them as she dealt with a certain prosperous business man who one day confided to his physician that he was exceedingly anxious about himself.

"I notice," he said, "that my mind fatigues strangely every afternoon. I can work well enough in the forenoon, but after luncheon I find it hard to concentrate. I find it hard even to keep awake. I'm afraid there must be something seriously wrong with me."

The physician, unable to detect anything seriously wrong, questioned his patient as to his eating habits, hazarding the suggestion that possibly he ate too heavy a luncheon.

"Possibly I do," was the response. "Indeed, I know that for some time I have been eating pretty hearty luncheons. For some reason I am hungrier at noon than I used to be."

"And your breakfasts, are they hearty, too?"

"Quite the contrary. I hardly eat any breakfast. Certainly not so much as I formerly did."

"Then," the physician told him, "I should advise you to give yourself more food at breakfast. Can you not see that your increased appetite at noon is nature's way of compelling you to make amends for starving yourself at breakfast?

"Nature, unfortunately, does not take into account the necessity of your returning to work and using your mind after luncheon. Responding to her command, as conveyed by the sharpening of your appetite, you then eat so much that an excess of blood is drawn from your brain to your stomach for digestive purposes.

"That is why you drowse after luncheon. It is why your mind quickly tires when you try to think. Your brain no longer has the blood supply requisite for wakefulness and thinking."

There is, too, another way in which nature troubles some people who breakfast inadequately and hastily. That is by causing them to suffer mysterious aches and pains, to react badly to changes in the weather, and to feel physically and mentally tired most of the time.

The prescription, "Eat more, and especially eat a good breakfast," is to such people the best of all possible prescriptions. Acting on it, they find themselves not merely losing their aches and pains but becoming more resistive to colds and other infectious ailments, better workers and with a greater capacity for satisfaction with life.

TUJUNGA GARDEN OF MOON HOLDS FIRST DANCE

Opening Event Tonight at New Amusement Park on Highway

TUJUNGA, June 3.—The first dance of the season in the new Garden of the Moon on the highway, isto be given tonight. Guy M. Insley and Marvin Selleck, managers of the new amusement park, have completed arrangements for the opening event and have secured excellent music. The floor has been put in perfect condition and the refreshment stands will be in operation. This dance will not mark the formal opening of the garden, which will be given later in the season.

Work on the swimming pool at the park is being pushed as rapidly as possible, and it is expected to have it completed by July. The grounds around the dance platform have been beautified and tables constructed, and it is expected that they will prove a popular picnic place during the summer months.

It is at the Garden of the Moon that it is planned to give the second Moon Festival of the Tujungans during the fall season.

Masons Invite Community

Tujunga Masons have invited the community to accompany them on a trip to Mt. Lowe this afternoon and evening in response to a special invitation from Professor Larkin of the Mt. Lowe observatory. The planets Neptune and Saturn can be plainly seen through the 16-inch telescope at the observatory at this time, and arrangements have been made for all those in the party to view the heavens.

The Masons intend to picnic on the mountain, and stages will leave Tujunga at 1:30. The fare to Pasadena is $1. Several who cannot go early intend to go over in private machines later in the day, and meet the party at the observatory.

Blazing Car Locked in Garage

A garage containing an automobile, together with several small outbuildings and rabbit hutches, was burned yesterday at the home of H. A. Hadley on Summit street near Stevens way. The blaze started in the garage where Mr. Hadley was working around his car. Whe nhe ran out to get a hose to put out the fire, the spring lock on the garage doors fastened and locked the blazing car inside. Before the doors could be battered in the car and building were almost totally destroyed.

CAMPING TRIPS CALL

Motorists who delight in taking camping trips through the hills or to various California cities are beginning to feel the urge to take to the open. The days for the camping season will soon be here, and many enthusiasts are beginning to pay attention to the equipment needed. There are several hundred free public automobile camping grounds in California and the popularity of the tours will be greater this season than ever.

Talking on this subject an experienced motorist said recently:

"One will be the better off for cutting his paraphernalia to the absolute necessities. It is annoying to be cluttered up with a lot of stuff which is not absolutely needed. However, one must be careful to have the things which are actually necessary to make the trip more enjoyable. A lunch equipment in a box large enough to told all the pots, pans and stove is always handy.

"A water can must be taken. Fireless cookers, while bulky, are quite a pleasure on rainy days. One of the real joys of motoring is to be able to stop when and where you wish. Study devoted to the equipment and a little foresight, eliminating all the things not needed, will serve to make the trip all the more enjoyable."

FOLEY ADDRESSES KIWANIS CLUB ON HELPING

Recites Poems and Discusses Philosophy of Humanity

The principal speaker of the meeting of the Kiwanis club yesterday was James W. Foley, the feature writer and poet. Mr. Foley spoke on the topic, "Helping the Other Fellow." He also recited several of his own original poems that touch on the same subject.

The substance of Mr. Foley's address was that everyone is liable to go wrong and that each man is his brother's keeper. By helping the other fellow it might make the right road a little easier for him.

W. J. Rhynsburger, secretary of the Los Angeles Kiwanis club, spoke of the work of the club.

O. W. Anderson sang and was applauded to the echo. The members of the club joined in community singing before the meeting was ended.

An Irish Republican, taking his life in his hands, was delivering a passionate speech to a mixed crowd in Belfast.

He had suffered badly at the hands of one particular heckler, but at last his chance came.

"You think you're very smart, don't you?" sneered the heckler. "Well, just tell us how many toes has a pig got?"

"Take your boots off and count!" was the lightning reply.

There was no further interruption.
